Women Drivers Obey Better

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Women drivers obey the laws better than men, a survey shows, with one exception: Women are more stubborn about yielding the right of way. The California Highway Patrol, after completing a survey of 1967 traffic accidents involving death or injury, said Thursday 42 per cent of the state's drivers are females. But of all death or injury accidents involving women, more than 28 per cent involved failure to yield right-of-way. Only 19.5 per cent of the men violated right-of-way rules. From there on, however, the ladies had all the best of it: —Of men involved in such accidents, 23 per cent had been drinking —against 9.6 per cent for the women. —One third of the men were driving too fast, one fourth of the women. —Of 101 drivers involved in an accident while passing on a curve, 15 were women. Going further, the patrol looked into bicycle accidents. Some 3,000 males were injured on bicycles in the state in 1967 and 34 were killed, compared with 662 females injured and 11 killed. The report concluded: Men and boys, because of their activities and proclivities, have more accidents than women and girls.

Elderly Couple Found Slain

TUCKAHOE, N.J. (AP) — Two grandparents were found shot to death in their rural south jersey home Thursday night, police said. The house had been set afire. State police said Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Clarkson, aged 66 and 64 respectively, were found partially clothed behind the front door of their one-and-a-half-story frame house on the Clarkson Nursery farm, which they ran. The bodies were removed from the house before flames reached them by their son, Philip Clarkson, in his early 30's, and a neighbor, Dr. Allison Price, who first noticed the fire from his home about 400 yards away, according to state police. Cape May County Medical Examiner Dr. Carl J. Records Jr. said the husband was shot once in the throat and the wife once in the neck under the chin. Charles Webb Sr. of the Upper Township Rescue Squad which removed the bodies, said the husband's wrists and ankles were bound behind his waist with a torn bedsheet. He was clothed only in his underwear and was blindfolded with a red cloth, Webb said. He said the wife was nude but not bound. "I wonder what they must have gone through before they were shot," Webb said.

Sabotaged-Car Blast Kills 11 in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — A saw. Elmalak said that when he ran outside there were about six fires in various shops. He said at the barbershop he saw dead and injured and "the seats were splashed with blood." Police blocked off the area and began searching for more explosives. Acting Mayor Mordechai Ish-Shalom and police and army commanders inspected the blast site, where about 20 automobiles also were destroyed or damaged. A woman shopkeeper, standing in the debris of her store, sobbed: "I know it's war and everything, but this is just murder." Special security precautions were put into force as several funerals of victims were held hours after the blast. The techniques of touching off explosives in a parked car was reminiscent of anti-Jewish tactics followed by the Arabs more than 20 years ago before Israel emerged as an independent nation. At least two Arabs were among the wounded. Police said 13 victims were in serious condition. Mayor Teddy Kollek heard of the explosion in New York and planned to fly back tonight, city officials said. Police closed off traffic from the Jewish sector to Arab east Jerusalem to head off anti-Arab riots. It was the third bomb attack within the Holy City in recent months. Last September, bombs planted by Arab saboteurs killed one Israeli and wounded 59. Mobs of Jews attacked Arabs in retaliation. "The most terrible thing I ever

BONN, Germany (AP) — France was forced to devalue its franc today, ironically on Charles de Gaulle's 78th birthday. French officials were silent on action decided upon at the 11-power meeting here of treasury officials. But Germany's finance minister Franz Joseph Strauss, said the franc will be devalued by around 10 per cent while the United States and other allies of France will make $2 billion available to Paris to rescue the currency from speculators. The British pound will not be devalued, Strauss said. An estimate given by Strauss would bring the franc down from a value of 20 cents to the vicinity of 18 cents. "The franc will be devalued," Strauss said. "It is up to the French government to decide what the rate of devaluation will be."

Britain announced heavy new taxes on beer, whisky, cigarettes and gasoline in an effort to halt an outflow of funds for imports. The levy amounts to a 10 per cent surtax. Britain's Labor government also announced plans for new legislation to curb imports. In the last devaluation of the franc in 1958, the currency was trimmed by 17.55 per cent, pegging it at 493 to the U.S. dollar. It previously had been 420 to the dollar. Strauss told reporters the French Cabinet would decide in a meeting called for Saturday on the exact rate of devaluation. In the rescue operation to keep the franc from speculators the United States will make available credits of $500 million, according to an official statement from the money meeting. West Germany with a $600-million contribution topped the list of the 10 suppliers of aid. Italy's contribution is $200 million. Britain, although strapped itself, is providing $100 million, with Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Sweden and Canada providing the same amount. Japan's share is $50 million. To bolster the new value of the franc, the 10 nations at the conference got together a line of credit in other currencies which France could use to halt the flight of capital from French banks. Strauss said the total of these credits would amount to $2,985 billion. He added that $2 billion of this would be put at the disposal of France by the members of the Group of 10, the world's most powerful financial and industrial countries. Their finance ministers and central bank governors have been meeting on the crisis in Bonn since Wednesday. Strauss told reporters the other $85 million would come from "Special Drawing Rights," West German marks by which he meant by this, France has refused to join the scheme of setting up a system of such drawing rights on the International Monetary Fund. They are designed to supplement gold in the reserves of member countries. He said West Germany is also planning to help France out by easing taxes on West Germans who want to make direct investments in the industries of other countries. Members of the French delegation admitted privately that devaluation of the franc was certain. But it was a severe blow to President Charles de Gaulle, celebrating his 78th birthday today. A week ago he said devaluation would be "the worst possible absurdity." The crisis resulted from the large-scale exchange of francs for West German marks by speculators acting in the belief that France would have to devalue her currency because of economic setbacks stemming from last spring's worker-student crisis and that the West Germans would have to increase the value of their mark because of the heavy surpluses they have piled up from exports. Throughout the Bonn meeting, the West Germans refused to revalue the mark although many experts are convinced it is bound to come. The West Germans resisted it because it would make their goods more expensive and threaten the permanent loss of important markets. Instead the West Germans agreed to an indirect revaluation, reductions in the tax rebate on exports and in the tax on imports. Both will benefit France since the two countries trade more with each other than with anyone else, and British and American exporters also should benefit. West Germany's huge foreign trade surplus, which is expected to total more than $4 billion by the end of the year, is a growing threat to what economic stability Western Europe has been able to achieve. If the German export trade is allowed to increase unchecked, it can do so only at the expense of other exporting countries, and ultimately this would be self-defeating because the export earnings of the customer countries would be cut off by German competition and the customers thus would have nothing to buy German exports with. Revaluation of the mark would increase the cost of German exports, give other nations more chance at the market and bring the flow of trade back into balance. Whatever the outcome of the monetary conference, Britain is in for stiffer curbs on spending to increase exports and cut imports. Members of both major parties were ready for tougher action to bring Britain's trading books into balance, something the government has been striving to do since 1964. The moves most widely forecast were increases in drink, tobacco and gasoline taxes, a 10 per cent hike in sales taxes on luxury items and other durable goods, and stronger curbs on bank lendings.

Nixon Leads Engineering Firm Will Canvass by Develop Plans for Towns 20,488

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Richard M. Nixon won Missouri's 12 electoral votes by 20,488. Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick's official canvass showed today. Nixon got 811,32 votes. Democrat Hubert Humphrey 791,444 and independent George Wallace 206,126. The official canvass differed only slightly from the unofficial totals compiled by the Associated Press, which showed Nixon carrying the state by 20,120 votes. The official canvass of other Missouri voting will not be made until next month. Under the law, the presidential voting has to be tabulated first so the Republican presidential electors can meet in Jefferson City Dec. 16 to cast their formal votes under the electoral college system. In St. Louis City, Humphrey got 791,444, Nixon 58,252, Wallace 19,652. Humphrey also carried Jackson County, including Kansas City, 112,154 to 91,086, with 28,900 for Wallace. Nixon carried St. Louis County 180,355 to 165,786, with 39,234 for Wallace and racked up enough votes in outstate Missouri to overcome the Humphrey margin in the cities.

MALDEN — The Boothell Regional Planning Commission voted to employ Waters & Associates, a Sikeston engineering firm to conduct comprehensive plans for communities with less than 5,500 population in Scott Mississippi, Stoddard and Dunklin counties. The study is expected to take about nine months. It will chiefly concern the water and sewer needs of the communities. The comprehensive plan for each community will involve a study of the history of the area, public facilities and utilities available, economic resources, commerce and industry, natural resources, land use plan, growth trends, water and sewer planning needs, present and future. Pat Lea, commission chairman will appoint committees in each of the four counties to assist the engineers and planners in preparation of plans. The study is expected to take about nine months. years all but eclipsed what some have hailed as the greatest social progress achieved by any president. He hopes to see the war in Vietnam ending, or at least the Paris peace talks reaching a substantive phase before he leaves office Jan. 20. And he hopes, too, for an end to the violence at home of the type that has laid waste major cities and which struck down John F. Kennedy five years ago today to put Johnson in the White House. He has some regret also about stepping out of the action in the political arena into the comparative quiet of the LBJ Ranch in Texas, a new phase of his life that will probably emphasize teaching, writing, lecturing and expanding the Johnson business enterprises.

U.S. Renews Firing Into DMZ on Losing 4 Copters

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that four American helicopters have been shot down in the past 48 hours and American artillery fired into the northern half of the demilitarized zone for the first time since the bombing halt. The command said the Americans opened up on guns in the North Vietnamese half of the DMZ after they fired on U.S. reconnaissance planes. But it denied Communist charges that North Vietnamese villages were shelled. Nine U.S. soldiers died in the helicopter crashes, which raised to 933 the total number of helicopters shot down in South Vietnam during the war. Two of the helicopters were downed in the jungles of Tay Ninh province close to the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon. American air cavalrymen have been sweeping this area intensively to guard against the return of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops from sanctuaries across the frontier. Another chopper was brought down in the Central Highlands near the Laotian frontier, where other American soldiers are checking infiltration trails. The fourth helicopter was downed about 70 miles east of Saigon. The threat of infiltration in the Central Highlands was underlined by massive B52 strikes thrown at jungled hideouts along the borders of Kontum Province. The U.S. Command said almost 750 tons of bombs were dropped in the area during the past 24 hours.

Chain Saws New Explosions Taken Valued Bog Mine Rescue At $700

Two chain saws valued together at $700 were taken in a break-in last night of the Cline Nursery office, 900 (rear) Linn St., police reported. Investigating patrolman Eugene Boothe said entry was gained by cutting a padlock on the office front door. In the other front door, a car driven by Roger M. Vaughn, 43, 838 Anderson St., traveling east on Tanner Street struck the side of a car traveling south on Main Street. The second car was driven by Don H. Littleton, 821 Anderson. The accident occurred at 8:05 a.m. today at Tanner and North Main streets. No one was injured. Gary E. Clark, 515 Kendall St., was charged by police Thursday with operating a motor vehicle with defective brakes. Reginald L. Merriek, 525 Malcolm St., was charged Thursday with running a stop sign at North and Frisco streets. Charles Rembert Folker street, was charged at 2:05 a.m. today with assault and battery. Charles H. Lambert, 225 Young St., was charged Thursday with assault and battery. Jerry Ray Byrd, 201 Selma, was charged Wednesday with burglary and stealing. Thirty-one million acres of soybeans were harvested by American farmers last year. The product ranks third as a cash crop.

MANNINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — A shuddering explosion early today hit the coal mine where 78 men have been trapped for two days in deep passageways with fire still raging uncontrolled. The predawn blast, latest in a series that started Wednesday morning, sent tremors throughout the area and "lit the sky up." There has been no communication with the trapped men since they were entombed several hundred feet below the surface at dawn Wednesday. Twenty-one other miners either escaped or were pulled from the mine. "We have no control of the fire," a company official told a midmorning news conference. "The explosion put us back to where we were yesterday." Families of the trapped miners listened to the news conference over a loudspeaker set up outside the company store. Several women went into hysterics at the mention of gas and nurses administered sedatives to calm them. Of the group of about 75 up to 40 were in tears. William Poundstone, executive vice president of Consolidation Coal Co., said in a brief statement officials were evaluating the affect of the blast. "We have to assume that methane gas was involved," he said. Asked if the company planned to block all entrances to the 800-foot deep mine entombing the miners in an attempt to smother the fire, he said: "No, we are not."

He said another attempt would be made to seal the Mod's Run air vent where the explosion occurred, in an effort to control the fire below. In reply to another question, Poundstone said that of 125 tests during recent months, only three indicated the concentration of explosive coal dust in the mine was above the 65 per cent mark, regarded as the maximum safe level. Lewis B. Evans, safety director of the United Mine Workers, said a federal report in August "indicates very conclusively to me that the mine, at least when the federal inspector left was in a safe condition." "Whether it was safe in the months of September or October, I can't say," he added. Asked whether he would have hesitated to enter the mine before the initial blast Wednesday, Evans said: "Reading this federal report, I certainly would go in there because there's nothing in this report that indicates there was anything dangerous in the mine." The predawn explosion today rattled windows for miles around. "I felt the impact on my face," said 19-year-old Rich Opyoke who was standing on a bridge near the store. Leonard Gross, publications director for Consolidation Coal Co., Mountaineer's parent firm, pinpointed the explosion at the intake shaft on Mod's Run, one of the many passageways of the sprawling mine complex spread over a seven-mile area. "There has been no assessment of the intensity of the explosion," Gross said immediately after the blast. "However it was reported that flames erupted from the portal." He said this was the spot where experiments have been under way in trying to control the fire in the mine shafts by cutting off the oxygen. "This was a relatively strong blast," Gross added, indicating it was much stronger than one last night. He said it might be "several hours" before the severity of the blast can be assessed.

Family Members Visit Grave as Nation Notes Fifth Anniversary of JFK's Death

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of President John Fitzgerald Kennedy's family, including children clutching flowers, gathered in the early morning chill today at his grave on the fifth anniversary of his assassination. Among the first to arrive was Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the sole surviving Kennedy brother, accompanied by four children, presumably those of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy whose remains lie buried only feet away from his brother. In another car Joan Kennedy, Edward's wife, brought two of their children. And Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, mother of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, the late president's widow, brought a sprig of flowers to lay on the stone at Kennedy's grave. Visitors to the grave were expected to total in the thousands, trickling by the Cape Cod marble memorial built in 1967, the eternal flame and the floral tributes. President Johnson planned to send a wreath as he has every Nov. 22 since 1963 when Kennedy was gunned down in Dallas, Tex. Elsewhere in America and throughout the world, memorial services were held to say to the 35th president of the United States, "We have not forgotten."

Mrs. Onassis planned to observe the anniversary quietly as she has each of the last four years. Her private secretary, Nancy Tuckerman, said she would attend Mass in New York and spend most of the day in seclusion. As he left the cemetery, Edward Kennedy paused where newsmen were waiting at the main gate and told them, "We appreciate your understanding — in letting us go up there." Five little sprigs of flowers — white roses, lavender chrysanthemums and red roses — were the family's offering at Kennedy's grave. At the back of the grave wreaths were placed, brought by others who remembered the day. Also among the early visitors was Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, personal secretary to President Kennedy. There was, too, a group of girls from Trinity College, a group of young people from American University and 189 youngsters from Rickards Junior High School, Fort Lauderdale Fla., on a tour of Washington. An estimated 24 million people have visited Kennedy's grave and the flame that has burned with only slight interruptions since his burial three days after his death. Across the river in the nation's capital, worshippers attend a noon Mass at St. Matthews Cathedral, where the Requiem Mass for Kennedy was held. Another memorial Mass was planned in Georgetown's Holy Trinity Church, Kennedy's home parish during his Senate days. The Very Rev. Oscar L. Huber, who administered last rites to Kennedy five years ago, recites Mass at Dallas' Holy Trinity Church. Another Mass was planned in Hyannis Port, Mass., home of Kennedy's parents. Kennedy's mother, Rose, said in an interview for NBC's "Today" show: "Jack enjoyed being president. You read about some presidents thinking it's a lonely life, talking about its disadvantages. But I think he really reveled in the opportunity." A canopy Thursday night in front of New York's St. Patrick Cathedral, site of Requiem Mass for Kennedy's brother, Robert, slain last June in Los Angeles. An outdoor candelabra burned at the Temple of the Heights in Cleveland Heights, Ohio. In Chicago, U.S. District Judge Otto Kerner, former chairman of President Johnson's riot commission, receives tonight the John F. Kennedy Award of the Catholic Interracial Council. Previous awards went to the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and President Johnson. In Paris, Kennedy's brother-in-law, Ambassador Sargent Shriver and members of his family attended a private memorial service today at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church. Mrs. Shriver, the former Eunice Kennedy, president, presented "Flame of Hope" candles to an institution for mentally retarded children in the suburb of Choisy-le-Roi this afternoon. The candles were made by mentally retarded children in the United States. Britain's monument to President Kennedy, the great stone slab in the field of Runnymede where the Magna Carta was signed, stood desolate and undecorated on the anniversary. The seven-ton stone was sheathed in a wooden covering, the result of a bomb explosion Oct. 26 on the eve of an anti-Vietnam war demonstration in London. Keepers at the grounds said that by mid morning no one had come to place flowers at the broken monument, which is to be lifted from its base in 10 days for repairs.

Two Receive Second New Heart After Earlier Transplants Fail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Two patients received new hearts for the second time Thursday after earlier transplants failed. Everett Thomas, 47, the nation's longest-surviving heart transplant, received a second replacement at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston, Tex. His condition today was listed as satisfactory. Darrell Hammarley, 56, received a second heart at Stanford University Hospital, Stanford, Calif., after the first transplant began beating erratically within six hours. His condition today was given as fair. Hammarley, a retired airline pilot from San Jose, Calif., was the first in history to undergo a second heart transplant. Dr. Norman E. Shumway, a pioneer heart transplant surgeon, was in charge of the surgical team. Dr. Denton E. Cooley headed the team operating both times on Thomas, who received his first donor heart May 3 in the world's ninth heart transplant. Thomas, an accountant, was discharged from the hospital last summer and began work as a trust consultant for a bank in Houston. He was readmitted to the hospital last month and it was announced he was showing signs of rejecting the heart. His condition was reported as serious shortly before the second transplant. The hospital did not identify Thomas' second donor but said Stanford University Hospital, Stanford, Calif., after the first transplant began beating erratically within six hours. It was extremely fortunate that a second donor was available and it shows the need for organ banks to meet emergencies, they added. Hammarley's second operation was described as "relatively simple and went very well." He was Shumway's eighth heart transplant patient. The second Thomas operation which required more than two hours to complete, took longer than some of the previous Houston transplant operations. Cooley said the team encountered minor problems with "scar tissue from the first operation." Cooley said he was "more confident" of the second transplant. "I have a lot more miles on me than when we did the first—I am more confident of the surgical procedure now," he said. The Cooley team has performed 15 heart transplants, including Thomas' second. Sabotaged-Car Blast Kills 11 in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — A saw. Elmalak said that when he packed inside a parked car blasted a crowded market place in the Jewish sector of the Holy City today, killing 11 persons and wounding 55. Within seconds, the market, jammed with Jewish shoppers stocking up for the Sabbath weekend, was a scene of terror and chaos as hundreds fled in panic. It was the worst sabotage incident in the 20 years of the Jewish state's existence. Prime Minister Levi Eshkol interrupted a holiday to call a high-level Cabinet session on the incident. Police immediately cordoned off the perimeter of Jerusalem, halting all Arabs attempting to enter the Old City. Police said 500 Arabs were interrogated. Some Jews halted an Arab taxi, chased away the occupants and wrecked the car. Others were heard shouting, Kill the Arabs, Kill the Arabs! The death car was parked in the Mahaneh Yehuda market, a teeming open air quarter popular with Jewish housewives near the heart of Jewish Jerusalem. Police said about 40 pounds of high explosives — believed to be TNT — was touched off at 9:30 a.m., blasting a six-foot-wide crater in the street. A nearby Jewish barbershop bore the brunt of the blast, which rocked the entire city. Reports said three barbers and two customers were killed. A neighbor, Rahamin Elmalak, who rushed to the shop in his pajamas, described it as "the most terrible thing I ever celebrating his 78th birthday today. A week ago he said devaluation would be "the worst possible absurdity." The crisis resulted from the large-scale exchange of francs for West German marks by speculators acting in the belief that France would have to devalue her currency because of economic setbacks stemming from last spring's worker-student crisis and that the West Germans would have to increase the value of their mark because of the heavy surpluses they have piled up from exports. Throughout the Bonn meeting, the West Germans refused to revalue the mark although many experts are convinced it is bound to come. The West Germans resisted it because it would make their goods more expensive and threaten the permanent loss of important markets. Instead the West Germans agreed to an indirect revaluation, reductions in the tax rebate on exports and in the tax on imports. Both will benefit France since the two countries trade more with each other than with anyone else, and British and American exporters also should benefit. West Germany's huge foreign trade surplus, which is expected to total more than $4 billion by the end of the year, is a growing threat to what economic stability Western Europe has been able to achieve. If the German export trade is allowed to increase unchecked, it can do so only at the expense of other exporting countries, and ultimately this would be self-defeating because the export earnings of the customer countries would be cut off by German competition and the customers thus would have nothing to buy German exports with. Revaluation of the mark would increase the cost of German exports, give other nations more chance at the market and bring the flow of trade back into balance. Whatever the outcome of the monetary conference, Britain is in for stiffer curbs on spending to increase exports and cut imports. Members of both major parties were ready for tougher action to bring Britain's trading books into balance, something the government has been striving to do since 1964. The moves most widely forecast were increases in drink, tobacco and gasoline taxes, a 10 per cent hike in sales taxes on luxury items and other durable goods, and stronger curbs on bank lendings.

Nixon Leads Engineering Firm Will Canvass by Develop Plans for Towns 20,488

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Richard M. Nixon won Missouri's 12 electoral votes by 20,488. Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick's official canvass showed today. Nixon got 811,322 votes. Democrat Hubert Humphrey 791,444 and independent George Wallace 206,126. The official canvass differed only slightly from the unofficial tot als compiled by the Associated Press which showed Nixon carrying the state by 20,120 votes. The official canvass of other Missouri voting will not be made until next month. Under the law, the presidential voting has to be tabulated first so the Republican presidential electors can meet in Jefferson City Dec. 16 to cast their formal votes under the electoral college system. In St. Louis City, Humphrey got 791,444, Nixon 58,252, Wallace 19,652. Humphrey also carried Jackson County, including Kansas City, 112,154 to 91,086, with 28,980 for Wallace. Nixon carried St. Louis County 180,355 to 155,786, with 29,234 for Wallace and racked up enough votes in outstate Missouri to overcome the Humphrey margin in the cities.

MALDEN -- The Boothell Regional Planning Commission voted to employ Waters & Associates, a Sikeston engineering firm to conduct comprehensive plans for communities with less than 5,500 population in Scott Mississippi, Stoddard and Dunklin counties. The study is expected to take about nine months. It will chiefly concern the water and sewer needs of the communities. The comprehensive plan for each community will involve a study of the history of the area, public facilities and utilities available, economic resources commerce and industry, natural resources land use plan, population characteristics, growth trends, water and sewer planning needs — present and future. Pat Lea, commission chairman will appoint committees in each of the four counties to assist the engineers and planners in preparation of plans. Firearms Charge Draws Fine And Sentence in City Court

Washington (AP) — years all but eclipsed what some have hailed as the greatest social progress achieved by any president. He hopes to see the war in Vietnam ending, or at least the Paris peace talks reaching a substantive phase before he leaves office Jan. 20. And he hopes, too, for an end to the violence at home — of the type that has laid waste major cities and which struck down John F. Kennedy five years ago today to put Johnson in the White House. He has some regret also about stepping out of the action in the political arena into the comparative quiet of the LBJ Ranch in Texas, a new phase of his life that will probably emphasize teaching, writing, on the crowning lecturing and expanding the disappointments that in his final Johnson business enterprises.

LBJ Has Mixed Feelings About 5 Years in Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, completing five years in the White House today, looks ahead to what he now calls an "enforced vacation" with mixed feelings of regret and pride. "In the twilight of our career in Washington, the climax of 37 years," Johnson said Thursday night, "we have looked back at some of the achievements, some of the things we have gloried in, and some of the disappointments." He ticked off among the achievements education, health, consumer welfare, veterans benefits, conservation — the guts of a flood of bills the former majority leader rammed through Congress in the early years of his presidency. Only fleetingly did he touch on the crowning disappointments that in his final Johnson business enterprises.

U.S. Renews Firing Into DMZ on Losing 4 Choppers

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that four American helicopters have been shot down in the past 48 hours and American artillery fired into the northern half of the demilitarized zone for the first time since the bombing halt. The command said the Americans opened up on guns in the North Vietnamese half of the DMZ after they fired on U.S. reconnaissance planes. But it denied Communist charges that North Vietnamese villages were shelled. Nine U.S. soldiers died in the helicopter crashes, which raised to 933 the total number of helicopters shot down in South Vietnam during the war. Two of the helicopters were downed in the jungles of Tay Ninh province close to the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon. American air cavalrymen have been sweeping this area intensively to guard against the return of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops from sanctuaries across the frontier. Another chopper was brought down in the Central Highlands near the Laotian frontier, where other American soldiers are checking infiltration trails. The fourth helicopter was downed about 70 miles east of Saigon. The threat of infiltration in the Central Highlands was underlined by massive B52 strikes thrown at jungled hideouts along the borders of Kontum Province. The U.S. Command said almost 750 tons of bombs were dropped in the area during the past 24 hours.

Chain Saws Taken Valued At $700 New Explosions Bog Mine Rescue

Two chain saws valued together at $700 were taken in a break-in last night of the Cline Nursery office 900 (rear) Linn St. police reported. Investigating patrolman Eugene Boothe said entry was gained by cutting a padlock on the office front door. In other activity, a car driven by Roger M. Vaughn, 43, 838 Anderson St. traveling east on Tanner Street struck the side of a car traveling south on Main street. The second car was driven by Don H. Littleton, 821 Anderson. The accident occurred at 8:05 a.m. today at Tanner and North Main streets. No one was injured. Gary E. Clark, 515 Kendall St. was charged by police Thursday with operating a motor vehicle with defective brakes. Reginald L. Merrick, 525 Malcolm St. was charged Thursday with running a stop sign a North and Frisco streets. Charles Rembert Felker street was charged at 2:05 a.m. today with assault and battery. Charles H. Lambert 225 Young St. was charged Thursday with assault and battery. Jerry Ray Byrd, 201 Selma was charged Wednesday with burglary and stealing.

Family Members Visit Grave as Nation Notes Fifth Anniversary of JFK's Death

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Onassis planned to observe the anniversary quietly as she has each of the last four years. Her private secretary, Nancy Tuckman, said she would attend Mass in New York and spend most of the day in seclusion. As he left the cemetery, Edward Kennedy paused where newsmen were waiting at the main gate and told them, "We appreciate your understanding in letting us go up there." Five little sprigs of flowers — white roses, lavender chrysanthemums and red roses — were the family's offering at Kennedy's grave. At the back of the grave wreaths were placed, brought by others who remembered the day. Also among the early visitors was Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, personal secretary to President Kennedy. There was, too, a group of girls from Trinity College, a group of young people from American University and 189 youngsters from Rickards Junior High School, Fort Lauderdale Fla., on a tour of Washington. An estimated 24 million people have visited Kennedy's grave and the flame that has burned with only slight interruptions since his burial three days after his death. Across the river in the

Two Receive Second New Heart After Earlier Transplants Fail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two patients received new hearts for the second time Thursday after earlier transplants failed. Everett Thomas, 47, the nation's longest-surviving heart transplant, received a second replacement at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston, Tex. His condition today was listed as satisfactory. Darrell Hammarley, 56, received a second heart at Stanford University Hospital, Stanford, Calif., after the first replacement began beating erratically within six hours. His condition today was given as fair. Hammarley, a retired airline pilot from San Jose, Calif., was the first in history to undergo a second heart transplant. Dr. Norman E. Shumway, a pioneer heart transplant surgeon, was in charge of the surgical team. Dr. Denton E. Cooley headed the team operating both times on Thomas, who received his first donor heart May 3 in the world's ninth heart transplant. Thomas, an accountant, was discharged from the hospital last summer and began work as a trust consultant for a bank in Houston. He was readmitted to the hospital last month and it was announced he was showing signs of rejecting the heart. His condition was reported as serious shortly before the second transplant. The hospital did not identify Thomas' second donor but said she was a 47-year-old woman who died of a brain hemorrhage shortly before his second operation began. The Stanford donors also were not named. Hammarley, a pilot for 23 years, was forced to retire about a year ago. He had three heart attacks. He received his first transplant Wednesday. Six hours later the organ developed an erratic rhythm and showed a below normal over-all performance. The removed heart — the first transplant — will be autopsied to determine what went wrong, doctors said. It was extremely fortunate that a second donor was available and it shows the need for organ banks to meet emergencies, they added. Hammarley's second operation was described as "relatively simple and went very well." He was Shumway's eighth heart transplant patient. The second Thomas operation which required more than two hours to complete, took longer than some of the previous Houston transplant operations. Cooley said the team encountered minor problems with "scar tissue from the first operation." Cooley said he was "more confident" of the second transplant. "I have a lot more miles on me than when we did the first — I am more confident of the surgical procedure now," he said. The Cooley team has performed 15 heart transplants, including Thomas' second.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS:

Ever notice how you call some men to their nickname or shortened name until people forget what their real name is?

It happens all the time.

Usually these abbreviated names apply on the open faced, all American looking, boyish appearing men who remind you of the kid next door.

You think that you can read their every thought but, of course, you shouldn't always count on it.

Did you ever notice how some backs are often slapped as a token of friendship and others are seldom touched?

The same personality factors apply.

This doesn't mean that those who are dealt with less favorably are the bad guys.

Far from it. Many are held in respect but they are usually more formal and more reserved than the good guys greeted by shortened names and back slapping.

All of which reminds us that President-Elect Richard Nixon -- to his everlasting credit -- has come a long way in changing his image but not quite all the way.

During the Eisenhower administration days when Nixon was vice president he addressed the National Conference of Editorial Writers at Oklahoma City.

Before his appearance in which he fielded a wide assortment of questions exceedingly well, the president of the organization labored diligently to build up Nixon as a folksy person.

He made repeated announcements about his coming, always describing him as "Dick Nixon".

This probably was no accident.

As a matter of fact Nixon has seldom if ever been called "Dick" by accident.

Without a doubt the president was told by Nixon aides to describe him as "Dick", possibly to assure a friendlier reception, perhaps to make him a more appealing person -- hopefully the sort of guy you'd like to elect to the presidency.

Anyway "Dick Nixon" was dinned into the ears of the delegates to the convention.

In those days his image needed major repairs.

It's to Nixon's credit that after two major defeats he was able to overcome serious personality flaws and project himself as a pleasant, affable, smiling seeker of the presidency.

In this role he came through on television as convincingly sincere -- a thoroughly real person.

Although he has won the nation's respect, he's still not the kid next door, grown up, or an open faced man whose every thought can be read by a quick look.

He's still Richard Nixon not Dick Nixon.

Most people would be glad to tend their own business if the government would give it back to them.

A conservative is a man who wears both belt and suspenders.

THANKSGIVING WORE A DIRTY FACE

Miss Jones looked at the calendar on her desk to confirm what she already knew. It was November 24. Tomorrow school would let out for the Thanksgiving holidays.

"Thanksgiving," Miss Jones said the word silently, but deliberately. Thanksgiving, indeed! She glimpsed Billy Peters firing a spitball. When it reached its target, it created an explosion like an artillery burst.

Couldn't Billy ever behave himself? Didn't any of the parents of Shinbone Corners care about these little sinners? Where, for instance, would dirty-faced, longmaned Billy wind up? More importantly, why did she ever yield to transferring to this jumping off place on the argument it would be "challenging"?

However, the calendar said it was the day before Thanksgiving, regardless of what was in her mind -- or Billy's mind.

"Class," she called out. "Class, as you know, tomorrow will be Thanksgiving. We have much to be thankful for." She swallowed. "I'd like each of you to write a sentence or two stating something you are thankful for. If you like, we'll read them."

Susan was thankful for Pilgrims "who picked out such a beautiful land for us to live in."

"I like the turkey dinner at the Boys' Club," Joe read.

"I thank God for inventing Thanksgiving," said Janie. Mary read: "I like Thanksgiving because I get to be with both my mother and my father."

"I'm thankful for turkey and ham and rolls and pumpkin pie and ice cream and chocolate pie and chocolate cake..." Fatso seemed only started when the class laughed him down.

When Billy's time came, he assumed his usual stance, most of his weight on one foot, suggestive of the tentative way he approached everything.

"I am thankful-" he started, and then looked about himself questioningly as though he would burst into tears or beat down somebody's ears if they subjected him to ridicule.

"I am thankful for Miss Jones. She is my friend."

"Thank you, Billy," said Miss Jones, and she turned to erase the blackboard which was already clean. "Class," she said over her shoulder, "you are dismissed for recess."

Then she put down her head and wept.

SIMPLE CHANGES IN EATING HABITS CAN PROTECT HEARTS.

Many health persons may unknowingly be increasing their risk of heart attack by eating a typical American diet, Missouri Heart Association warns. But moderate changes in such a diet can reduce this risk.

One aim should be to cut down on the intake of cholesterol and saturated fats, which contribute to atherosclerosis, a form of hardening of the arteries underlying most heart attacks. At the same time, there are other goals to keep in mind -- maintenance of a nutritionally-adequate diet and, through calorie control, remaining at a desirable weight.

To help achieve these aims, Missouri Heart

Association suggests in today's article those specific foods that should be used more frequently, and others which should be used sparingly, or not at all. Changes in eating habits can be applied to every meal of the day, and in every course of the meal from appetizer to dessert -- literally from soup (skimmed of fat) to nuts (which have no cholesterol and are low in saturated fat).

Chicken, turkey, veal and fish are low in saturated fats, and should be used in most of the meat meals during the week. No more than five meals a week should include beef, lamb, pork or ham. At that, the housewife should choose lean cuts of these meats and trim off visible fat before cooking. Bake, broil, roast or stew the meats and discard the liquid fats which cook out. Certain high-protein vegetables -- dried beans, baked beans, lentils -- occasionally may be used in place of meat. Three to four ounces of cooked meat or fish (not counting bone or fat) or a similar amount of a high-protein vegetable is recommended as an average serving.

Among the fat-laden foods to be avoided are duck, goose, spareribs, mutton, frankfurters, sausages, fatty hamburgers, bacon and luncheon meats. Cholesterol-rich food to be restricted in use include egg yolks, the organ meats -- liver, kidney and sweetbreads -- and the shellfish -- crab, lobster, shrimp and clams.

Since liver is very rich in vitamins and iron, it should not be eliminated completely from the diet. A four-ounce serving of liver in a meat meal no more than once a week is permissible. A four-ounce serving of shellfish may be substituted for meat no more than once a week.

Virtually every fresh fruit and vegetable may be used generously and regularly, except for olives and avocados, which are very high in fat calories. The daily intake of margarine and oils should emphasize the polyunsaturated fats, which tend to lower cholesterol levels in the blood.

A note of caution also applies to the use of butter rolls, commercial biscuits, muffins (but not English muffins), doughnuts, sweet rolls, crackers and commercial mixes containing dried eggs and whole milk, sources of both cholesterol and saturated fats. But skim milk fortified with vitamins A and D, skim milk cheeses, buttermilk and yogurt should be used often.

An explanation of the relationship of diet to heart disease, as well as lists of foods to have, and not to have, recipes and tips on food preparation can be found in two new Heart Association publications. These are The Way to A Man's Heart, and Recipes for Fat-Controlled and Low Cholesterol Meals. They are available from your Heart Association. Two other publications contain stricter plans for fat-controlled diets and are available for patients on a doctor's prescription.

BRIGHT SPOT

Amidst all the dismal news of yesterday there was one bright item. Judge Elijah Adlow, 72, of Boston, got fed up with a political speech by a 21-year-old female witness. She demanded right to free speech. "Look, little girl," said the judge, "I'll debate you somewhere, but the courtroom is my show."

Now there goes a judge."

In negotiating with the Communists over Viet Nam, the United States is the thrice-spurned lover who believes a form love letter. He is the pharmacist who files a prescription he can't read. He is a "bleeder" who skates naked. There is no conclusion except that he has a very great wish to die. He equips his warriors with the best tools of war then dares them to use them to win. He fears "The Bomb" but goes to great length to make certain his die-hard enemies will never be afraid of it. Korea taught him nothing. Cuba was just a temporary inconvenience. He is the Carthaginian incarnate. He is many other things, too. He is the conglomerate installed in office by an everestive electorate which expected something better but which went on in its world of apathy, never bothering to check on the progress of its intended mandate. Whatever he is, be he one man, several, or the nation, he is guilty of the most heinous crime of asking even one of 500,000 Americans in Viet Nam to give up his life in a war whose promise to "contain communism" has been broken in favor of negotiations which heretofore have always had the opposite effect. These are the facts, and they can be construed as de facto criticism of an abominable conduct of this play-at-war. It is a super-abomination for mature, intelligent people to think they can peagotiate with a tricky, imperialistic, genocidal enemy who thinks of "peagotiations" as a license to steal.

NEW YORK (AP) -- A lot of people are already cranky at Santa Claus this year.

The jolly old saint appears to have hitched up his reindeer jolly well too soon for some tastes. They would prefer to keep him leashed to the North Pole a bit longer.

The great stores along Fifth Avenue, one of the world's most famous shopping thoroughfares, once appeared to have a tail of people not to put up their Christmas decorations until after Thanksgiving.

This year many of the decorations were not only up but lit from a week to two weeks before the arrival of our annual harvest celebration. "What is happening to Thanksgiving?" ask some, annoyed at what seems to them the premature forcing of Christmas.

One answer would seem to be that Thanksgiving has been run over by the hit-and-run triumphant sled of Santa Claus -- and may thereby have been left permanently crippled, unless stern measures are taken from its rehabilitation.

Each year people are made less and less aware of the approach of Thanksgiving. If the stores have their windows full of holly wreaths, where will they find room to display the symbols of Thanksgiving -- the ripened ears of corn, the golden pumpkin, the pictures of the fatted turkey, the paintings of the Pilgrim family trudging off to church or feasting with the Indians? It would be sad indeed if this spirit of our most typical of American holidays should be diminished in importance, perhaps reduced even to the mockery celebration of Halloween.

Harvest festivals, reflecting man's gratitude for the fruition of earth's plenty, are known throughout all civilizations, present or past. They were held in ancient Egypt, Greece and Rome and are common among today's nations.

But in America, Thanksgiving holds a peculiar national relevance matched perhaps only by the 4th of July. None of our holidays is more truly American, for it represents the heartfelt joy of our founders after surviving the tremendous perils of their first year in a new land.

That first Thanksgiving was a giant stepping-stone of the American spirit, and that is what Thanksgiving has meant to us ever since the blessing of our victory over ordeal, the giving of thanks for our continuing survival amid manifold dangers, the celebration of the promise of our potential eternity as a united people.

There is no real reason for a conflict between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Surely we have room in our hearts, enough time in our year, to give each season its splendid due.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Jack Anderson says: Wallace will concentrate on building third party; birchites maneuvering for party control; Nixon judgeships u s t h a v e Thurmond in Birmingham, ALA. The big question politicians are asking is whether George Wallace can keep his third party alive. Will the United States desert its unique two-party system? Teddy Roosevelt, Bob La Follette, Strom Thurmond and Henry Wallace have launched third parties in this century. All fizzled. Will George Wallace be an exception. The shelling he took at the polls, his friends say, hasn't diminished his determination to reach the White House. He bounced back from defeat when he first ran for Governor of Alabama, and they expect him to pursue the Presidency with the same doggedness.

After John Patterson defeated him for the Governorship in 1958, Wallace campaigned up and down the State for the next four years. He shook hands at every country crossroads, spoke in every grubby hall, hustled votes down every country lane.

He also learned the catchwords and cliches that arouse the rabble. In his 1958 campaign he had posed as the champion of the unwashed, but he had been a racial moderate. He discovered, however, that Alabama voters were more fired up over segregation than over economics. Never again, he told friends, would he let anyone "out-set" him.

So for the next four years, freiendies predict, George Corley Wallace will apply nationally the tactics that made him a power in Alabama. He will crisscross the country, repeating the slogans that inflame the crowds, in behalf of his third-party movement.

He will attempt to establish the American independent as a permanent force in all 50 states. He will encourage third-party candidates to run for state and local offices. Some insiders believe he will run for Governor or Senator in Alabama himself in 1970 to gain a better platform for his next presidential campaign.

Wallace's Law Firm-- The only announcement Wallace has made is that he will return to his law practice. This has prospered in the past without his direct participation. His Montgomery, Ala., law firm--Wallace and Wallace--is run by his brother, Gerald "Sag" Wallace. The practice consists chiefly of clients who seek favors from the state.

The Wallace brothers had little money before George became Governor. While George was scaling the political peaks, Sag soared to the financial heights, though he denies he's traded on his brother's name.

Alabama businessmen have complained that George Wallace has bled them dry of campaign funds. Some State contractors say they could no longer afford to do business with the state if he wrings many more money out of them to finance his constant politicking.

Wallace has also collected thousands of dollars from right-wing extremist, Roy Harris, who publishes the right-wing Augusta, Ga., courier, is a member of his inner circle.

In many states, the Wallace campaign was organized by the John Birch society, which dispensed extremist Birchite literature out of Wallace-for-President headquarters. Bard Logan, a militant Birchir and chairman of the Wallace campaign in Texas, weren't in sympathy with the John Birch society.

At the local level, Birchers are now maneuvering for control of the American Independent party machinery that Wallace is attempting to install permanently in the 50 states.

Both George Wallace and the John Birch society, apparently, are using one another for their own purposes.

"I am not going to denounce the John Birch Society," Wallace has said. "I know a few of its members in Alabama, and they are some of our finest citizens."

Inner City War: Whole Cities could burn if guerrilla attacks on firefighters doesn't end, warns union chief

WASHINGTON, D.C.: -- One of these days, there will flash across the land a report that one of our neighborhoods, perhaps even one of our cities, is missing.

Then the raucous history of our times will have added a new burning epic to the ancient sagas of Chicago and San Francisco--because firefighters, hampered by sharpshooting riflemen, an occasional machine gunner, roving rooftop guerrilla bands, dynamiters, and by distracted by tens of thousands of false alarms, could not get to the conflagration on time.

This is the nightmare of the nation's new firefighters' union, which the firefighters' president, William (Howie) McClellan, lives, amid gory statistics, during his long days at his national headquarters here. Reports from 11 tough cities reveal that in 1967, 82.5 per cent of the firemen in those communities were injured on duty. Many were hurt during civil disturbances.

"All fires except explosions and holocausts start small," says Howie McClellan, the kind of "fireman" my predecessors in old city rooms used to call them "smoke-eaters." "And then they spread fast if our men don't get to them on time."

"And if we're harassed on the way to the flames, or if, when we get there, we run into guerrilla fire and have to withdraw, whole neighborhoods can go up -- even the greater part of an entire city."

"I'm not an alarmist. But we know the brutality of fire. We want to fight fires, not people. We'll do the best we can, but we need help from the 91st Congress, from the communities, from mayors, and most of all, from the people whose neighborhoods we're trying to save."

What "bugs" the otherwise jolly 240-pounder, now moving his family down from Boston to lead the 13,000-member International Assn. of Fire Fighters (AFL-CIO), or the legislative bodies have failed delaying of "the full response of equipment" until fire alarms are checked out. This is vital because false alarms have increased by 75 per cent in recent years.

A battalion chief in an unmarked car, accompanied by one truck, rushes to the reported fire to see whether a false alarm has brought him there or heavier equipment is needed. Then, if it's not an ambush or a garden variety false alarm, he reports back by shortwave radio and the trucks race in.

These firefighters still are under siege. Sharpshooters still are hitting speeding apparatus in West Coast communities. Cleveland has been the "guerilla center."

In East Coast megalopolises, chiefs and superior officers have abandoned wearing white helmets and white waterproofs so they don't stand out as targets for sharpshooters.

The men still run into booby-trapped staircases. Steps are cut away so they fall back onto a lower landing when they rush up to higher floors with hoses. They still are snared into ambush at buildings, atop which are caches of bricks, spiked beer cans, milk cartons and out?

Does no one really care? Where are those in and out of the central city who will speak for them?

Fighting fires is a tough way to earn a living -- and dodging bullets, fire bombs and missiles at the same time doesn't make it easier.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS:

Ever notice how you call some men to their nickname or shortened name until people forget what their real name is?

It happens all the time.

Usually these abbreviated names apply on the open faced, all American looking, boyish appearing men who remind you of the kid next door.

You think that you can read their every thought but, of course, you shouldn't always count on it.

Did you ever notice how some backs are often slapped as a token of friendship and others are seldom touched?

The same personality factors apply.

This doesn't mean that those who are dealt with less familiarly are the bad guys.

Far from it. Many are held in respect but they are usually more formal and more reserved than the good guys greeted by shortened names and back slapping.

All of which reminds us that President-Elect Richard Nixon -- to his everlasting credit -- has come a long way in changing his image but not quite all the way.

During the Eisenhower administration days when Nixon was vice president he addressed the National Conference of Editorial Writers at Oklahoma City.

Before his appearance in which he fielded a wide assortment of questions exceedingly well, the president of the organization labored diligently to build up Nixon as a folksy person.

He made repeated announcements about his coming, always describing him as "Dick Nixon".

This probably was no accident.

As a matter of fact Nixon has seldom if ever been called "Dick" by accident.

Without a doubt the president was told by Nixon aides to describe him as "Dick", possibly to assure a friendlier reception, perhaps to make him a more appealing person -- hopefully the sort of guy you'd like to elect to the presidency.

Anyway "Dick Nixon" was dinned into the ears of the delegates to the convention.

In those days his image needed major repairs.

It's to Nixon's credit that after two major defeats he was able to overcome serious personality flaws and project himself as a pleasant, affable, smiling seeker of the presidency.

In this role he came through on television as convincingly sincere -- a thoroughly real person.

Although he has won the nation's respect, he's still not the kid next door, grown up, or an open faced man whose every thought can be read by a quick look.

He's still Richard Nixon not Dick Nixon.

Most people would be glad to tend their own business if the government would give it back to them.

A conservative is a man who wears both belt and suspenders.

THANKSGIVING WORE A DIRTY FACE

Miss Jones looked at the calendar on her desk to confirm what she already knew. It was November 24. Tomorrow school would let out for the Thanksgiving holidays.

"Thanksgiving," Miss Jones said the word silently, but deliberately. Thanksgiving, indeed! She glimpsed Billy Peters firing a spitball. When it reached its target, it created an explosion like an artillery burst.

Couldn't Billy ever behave himself? Didn't any of the parents of Shinbone Corners care about these little sinners? Where, for instance, would dirty-faced, longmaned Billy wind up? More importantly, why did she ever yield to transferring to this jumping off place on the argument it would be "challenging"?

However, the calendar said it was the day before Thanksgiving, regardless of what was in her mind -- or Billy's mind.

"Class," she called out. "Class, as you know, tomorrow will be Thanksgiving. We have much to be thankful for." She swallowed. "I'd like each of you to write a sentence or two stating something you are thankful for. If you like, we'll read them."

Susan was thankful for Pilgrims "who picked out such a beautiful land for us to live in."

"I like the turkey dinner at the Boys' Club," Joe read.

"I thank God for inventing Thanksgiving," said Janie.

Mary read: "I like Thanksgiving because I get to be with both my mother and my father."

"I'm thankful for turkey and ham and rolls and pumpkin pie and ice cream and chocolate pie and chocolate cake...." Fatso seemed only started when the class laughed him down.

When Billy's time came, he assumed his usual stance, most of his weight on one foot, suggestive of the tentative way he approached everything.

"I am thankful--" he started, and then looked about himself questioning as though he would burst into tears or beat down somebody's ears if they subjected him to ridicule.

"I am thankful for Miss Jones. She is my friend."

"Thank you, Billy," said Miss Jones, and she turned to erase the blackboard which was already clean. "Class," she said over her shoulder, "you are dismissed for recess."

Then she put down her head and wept.

SEMPLE CHANGES IN EATING HABITS CAN PROTECT HEARTS.

Many health persons may unknowingly be increasing their risk of heart attack by eating a typical American diet, Missouri Heart Association warns. But moderate changes in such a diet can reduce this risk.

One aim should be to cut down on the intake of cholesterol and saturated fats, which contribute to atherosclerosis, a form of hardening of the arteries underlying most heart attacks. At the same time, there are other goals to keep in mind -- maintenance of a nutritionally-adequate diet and, through calorie control, remaining at a desirable weight.

To help achieve these aims, Missouri Heart

Association suggests in today's article those specific foods that should be used more frequently, and others which should be used sparingly, or not at all. Changes in eating habits can be applied to every meal of the day, and in every course of the meal from appetizer to dessert -- literally from soup (skimmed of fat) to nuts (which have no cholesterol and are low in saturated fat).

Chicken, turkey veal and fish are low in saturated fats, and should be used in most of the meat meals during the week. No more than five meals a week should include beef, lamb, pork or ham. At that, the housewife should choose lean cuts of these meats and trim off visible fat before cooking. Bake, broil, roast or stew the meats and discard the liquid fats which cook out. Certain high-protein vegetables -- dried beans, baked beans, lentils -- occasionally may be used in place of meat. Three to four ounces of cooked meat or fish (not counting bone or fat) or a similar amount of a high-protein vegetable is recommended as an average serving.

Among the fat-laden foods to be avoided are duck, goose, spareribs, mutton, frankfurters, sausages, fatty hamburgers, bacon and luncheon meats. Cholesterol-rich food to be restricted in use include egg yolks, the organ meats -- liver, kidney and sweetbreads -- and the shellfish -- crab, lobster, shrimp and clams.

Since liver is very rich in vitamins and iron, it should not be eliminated completely from the diet. A four-ounce serving of liver in a meat meal no more than once a week is permissible. A four-ounce serving of shellfish may be substituted for meat no more than once a week.

Virtually every fresh fruit and vegetable may be used generously and regularly, except for olives and avocados, which are very high in fat calories. The daily intake of margarine and oils should emphasize the polyunsaturated fats, which tend to lower cholesterol levels in the blood.

A note of caution also applies to the use of butter rolls, commercial biscuits, muffins (but not English muffins), doughnuts, sweet rolls, crackers and commercial mixes containing dried eggs and whole milk, sources of both cholesterol and saturated fats. But skim milk fortified with vitamins A and D, skim milk cheeses, buttermilk and yogurt should be used often.

An explanation of the relationship of diet to heart disease, as well as lists of foods to have, and not to have, recipes and tips on food preparation can be found in two new Heart Association publications. These are The Way to A Man's Heart, and Recipes for Fat-Controlled and Low Cholesterol Meals. They are available from your Heart Association. Two other publications contain stricter plans for fat-controlled diets and are available for patients on a doctor's prescription.

BRIGHT SPOT

Amidst all the dismal news of yesterday there was one bright item. Judge Elijah Adlow, 72, of Boston, got fed up with a political speech by a 21-year-old female witness. She demanded right to free speech. "Look, little girl," said the judge, "I'll debate you somewhere, but the courtroom is my show."

Now there goes a judge."

In negotiating with the Communists over Viet Nam, the United States is the thrice-spurned lover who believes a form love letter. He is the pharmacist who files a prescription he can't read. He is a "bleeder" who skates naked. There is no conclusion except that he has a very great wish to die. He equips his warriors with the best tools of war then dares them to use them: to win. He fears "The Bomb" but goes to great length to make certain his die-hard enemies will never be afraid of it. Korea taught him nothing. Cuba was just a temporary inconvenience. He is the Carthaginian incarnate. He is many other things, too. He is the conglomerate installed in office by an everest electorate which expected something better but which went on in its world of apathy, never bothering to check on the progress of its intended mandate. Whatever he is, be he one man, several, or the nation, he is guilty of the most heinous crime of asking even one of 500,000 Americans in Viet Nam to give up his life in a war whose promise to "contain communism" has been broken in favor of negotiations which heretofore have always had the opposite effect. These are the facts, and they can be construed as de facto criticism of an abominable conduct of this play-at-war. It is a super-abomination for mature, intelligent people to think they can pleagotiate with a tricky, imperialistic, genocidal enemy who thinks of "pleagotiations" as a license to steal.

NEW YORK (AP) -- A lot of people are already cranky at Santa Claus this year.

The jolly old saint appears to have hitched up his reindeer jolly well too soon for some tastes. They would prefer to keep him leashed to the North Pole a bit longer.

The great stores along Fifth Avenue, one of the world's most famous shopping thoroughfares, once appeared to have a tacit agreement not to put up their Christmas decorations until after Thanksgiving.

This year many of the decorations were not only up but lit from a week to two weeks before the arrival of our annual harvest celebration. "What is happening to Thanksgiving?" ask some, annoyed at what seems to them the premature forcing of Christmas.

One answer would seem to be that Thanksgiving has been run over by the hit-and-run triumphant sled of Santa Claus -- and may thereby have been left permanently crippled, unless stern measures are taken from its rehabilitation.

Each year people are made less and less aware of the approach of Thanksgiving. If the stores have their windows full of holy wreaths, where will they find room to display the symbols of Thanksgiving -- the ripened ears of corn, the golden pumpkin, the pictures of the fatted turkey, the paintings of the Pilgrim family trudging off to church or feasting with the Indians?

It would be sad indeed if this spirit of our most typical of American holidays should be diminished in importance, perhaps reduced even to the mockery celebration of Halloween.

Harvest festivals, reflecting man's gratitude for the fruit of earth's plenty, are known throughout all civilizations, present or past. They were held in ancient Egypt, Greece and Rome and are common among today's nations.

But in America, Thanksgiving holds a peculiar national relevance matched perhaps only by the 4th of July. None of our holidays is more truly American, for it represents the heartfelt joy of our founders after surviving the tremendous perils of their first year in a new land.

That first Thanksgiving was a giant stepping-stone of the American spirit, and that is what Thanksgiving has meant to us ever since -- the blessing of our victory over ordeal, the giving of thanks for our continuing survival amid manifold dangers, the celebration of the promise of our potential eternity as a united people.

There is no real reason for a conflict between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Surely we have room in our hearts, enough time in our year, to give each season its splendid due.

The wiring must also be in good

PLANS AND REALITY

"There will, of course, be a certain number of relief cases where work will not furnish that answer, but it is my thought that in these cases all of the relief expenditures should once more be borne by the states and localities as they used to be."

No, that is not Governor Reagan speaking. Nor were those lines penned by Barry Goldwater. The quotation is from a letter that Franklin D.
Roosevelt wrote to Colonel
Edward M. House on November
27, 1934.

The lessons of history, he
evidence immediately before me, show conclusively that
relief induces a moral and spiritual disintegration fundamentally destructive to the national fabric."

Still later, in a message to Congress in 1935, President Roosevelt declared: "The Federal Government must and shall quit this business or relief. To dole out relief in this way is to administer a narcotic, a subtle destroyer of the human spirit."

Congress passed the Social Security Act on August 14, 1935. The original act levied, "in addition to other taxes," and
"income tax" of one percent for each of three years beginning in 1937 on the first $3,000 of the employee's income. The tax rate was increased one-half of one percent each year, and was fixed at three percent after 1948. Equal amounts for each employee, designated "an excise manufactured after June 30, tax," were required to be paid 1964, and designated as a 1965 by the employer. "The taxes or later

'Come Dance With Us'

The Community Concert Hall she met Michael Maule, Colleen Corkre Dance Company with whom she formed a trio at 8 p.m. Monday in Charleston.

The star, Colleen Corkre, excels in ballet, modern and jazz dancing. Her career began when she won a scholarship at 14. She worked on Broadway and toured with ballet companies. She was cast in "My Fair Lady" on Broadway, and did a national tour with Ruth Page's Chicago Opera ballet. She has appeared on television on the Garry Moore show and the Ethel Merman spectacular.

In spite of this success, they decided that they preferred a concert type of program.

Bentley Roton, who is appearing with Miss Corkre, has danced in night clubs. He has toured in shows starring Jimmy Durante and Betty Grable. He is also an actor, having appeared in television roles. He was principal dancer in "My Fair Lady" and leading dancer in the New York City Center revival of "Pal Joey".

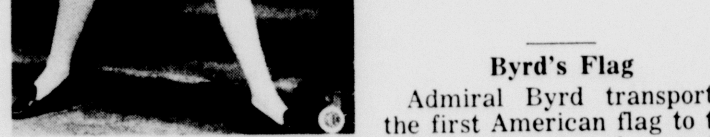

Orlando Zavarce, the third member, was born in Caracas, Venezuela, and saw his first ballet performance at 17. He enrolled with The Venezuelan national ballet school. After graduation he toured for three years.

Since coming to the United States Zavarce has appeared with regional ballet companies including the Memphis City Ballet.

This group is a dream come true for Miss Corkre, who has always wanted to design costumes and dance. This has become a reality in "Come Dance With Us."

Try Duck on Thanksgiving

If you have a hunter in the family, why not celebrate this Thanksgiving with the prize catch of the season—wild duck? For lovers of the succulent, rich meat, there is no finer dish than duck simply prepared and served on a bed of wild rice.

The secret is in the seasoning, and that's where Tabasco, the internationally known liquid red pepper spice, lends its unique touch. Tabasco, butter, paprika and salt are rubbed into the duck skin before the bird is roasted. When half done, the bird is covered with bacon slices and the roasting continued.

When serving duck with wild rice, rosy crabapples make a colorful garnish for the platter.

Roast Water Fowl
2 wild ducks (1 1/4 pounds each), 1 teaspoon paprika
oven ready 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 onion, chopped 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
1 garlic clove, minced 1 pound sliced bacon
2 tablespoons unsalted butter

Rub cavities of birds with onion and garlic. Combine butter, paprika, salt and Tabasco; rub into duck skin. Wrap duck in cheese cloth; place bird breast down on rack in greased shallow pan. Roast uncovered in 325 F. (slow) oven 1 1/2 to 2 hours, basting occasionally. Turn when half done. Remove cheese cloth, cover each bird with strips of bacon. Continue roasting until done. Serve with 4 cups cooked wild rice.
YIELD: 4 servings.

It is sometime in the future. It could be as much as fifty years from now, or it could be less than ten. You are huddled with a small group in a ramshackle building and it is very cold. There are no stoves in the building, so everyone is wearing heavy coats. There are no lights either, and the day is cloudy enough that the dim, gray light barely illuminates the room. Heads are all bowed, someone is whispering a prayer you are present at a worship service of the future.

Earlier, you had all sung a few hymns very softly so that no one outside could hear. Several prayers had been uttered and you had partaken of communion, consisting of home-made bread served out of a kitchen dish and sour grape-juice in a coffee cup. You had gathered one-by-one so that no one would suspect that a worship service was beginning and inform the authorities. Because, you see, religion is against the law!

All too soon, the services are over and you sit there dreading the remaining hectic week, as you wait your turn to leave. While you wait, you think back over the years unto your childhood. You can remember when everyone came to assemblies together...unafraid. You can remember when there were church buildings with real pews, lights, and air-conditioning! You can even remember when everyone sang, and prayed, and preached as they wanted to. You can especially recall that part of the prayer where someone would say, "We thank thee Father that we live in this free country where we can gather together for worship without fear of molestation." Oh, how those words come ringing back!!

How did it happen? Well, it happened a long time ago when this country was still free. People began to take for granted their prosperity and freedom. Morals began to decline. Modesty disappeared. Nobody ever really protested! People began losing their interest in spiritual matters, they lost their concern for the souls of the lost. And then, they lost concern for their own souls. They quit attending services, and then they quit altogether. The whole nation seemed to be going crazy! People were doing just exactly what they wanted to, no matter how sinful or evil! There were riots!! A mob even burned down the church building. The one day it happened. No bombs fell, and no shots were fired. Early one morning soldiers in strange uniforms simply marched into your town. The church had been swept along with the tide of the times. Christians had failed to make a stand. Religion had first become a joke, and then there was a law against it.

Big Eight Showdown at Columbia

COLUMBIA -- The last time Missouri and Kansas met for a Big Eight football championship the non-winning team lost a probable national championship but went to a major bowl.

That was in 1960. This Saturday in jam-packed Memorial Stadium, the same two border foe will trade licks in another "big one" -- a sellout every bit as meaningful as that vendetta eight years ago.

This time Ol' Mizzou and K.U. are already committed to postseason play -- Missouri in the Gator Bowl on Dec. 28, and Kansas in the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1 against Penn State. The Tigers are 7-2 for the season, and Kansas 8-1.

North Pemiscot Moves Step Closer to Title

WARDELL - Wulin defeated Holcomb 64-55, in a consolation semi-final basketball game, and North Pemiscot downed Cooter 87-62, in the winners semi-finals of the North Pemiscot Invitational Tournament last night.

In the consolation tournament like North Pemiscot's, the first round losers battled between themselves for a shot at a consolation trophy. The winners will go for the championship.

In the consolation semi-finals last night, Mike Hopkins was the high point man for Quin. He ran up 20 points.

Sonny Bailey scored 20 points for Holcomb, but was unable to win the game by himself. Quin led Holcomb in score by quarters for the first half which ended with Quin ahead 36-24.

In the second half, Holcomb made a comeback, leading in points for the second half but it could not recover Quin's early lead.

Clarkton vs. Hayti Central--Central made its presence felt Tuesday night when it took Gideon out of the championship running. It'll be hard to stop tonight. Hayti Central 73, Clarkton 64.

REGULAR SCHEDULE

Oran at Advance - It's another big match for the Eagles away from home tonight. They meet their grade Tuesday night against Delta and will have an easy way tonight. Oran 79, Advance 66.

Fisk at Campbell--This will be a great game. Although the Camels have the home court advantage, we'll stick our necks out and take the visitors. Fisk 67, Campbell 64.

Southland at South Pemiscot--It'll be season openers for both, we've lost track of both's returnees. So this one will give us trouble. How about taking a stab and say...a tie. Not such a thing in basketball so we can't get off that easy. South Pemiscot 58, Southland 55.

Bernie at Doniphan--Bernie has had its troubles in close matches and this game should prove to be one of those close ones. We think it'll beat that jinx tonight. Bernie 68, Doniphan 61.

Richland at New Madrid--If David Sims is on target...the Rebels will ease home with the victory, but if the tough Indian defense can halt his scoring and rebounding. We see a different game. Richland 64, New Madrid 58.

Scott Central at Parma--Parma won its first game Tuesday...It'll be another day to win its second besides tonight. Scott Central 73, Parma 58.

Bell City at Kelly--The Hawks are to have a fair season and no better way than to start off with a win tonight. Kelly 66, Bell City 64.

Greenville at Puxico--The high scoring machine of the Indians won't be disturbed by tonight's visitors. Puxico 89, Greenville 64.

Both are 5-1 in conference combat and the winner will earn a minimum co-championship -- also rapped by the Sooners -- should Oklahoma (4-1) stumble against Nebraska or Oklahoma State. The surging Sooners are paired with S.M.U. in the Bluebonnet bowl.

A bulging turnout of 60,500 will watch the two old foes play game No. 77 in the nation's oldest collegiate gridiron feud west of the Mississippi. By comparison, that '60 epic won by Kansas - 23-7 -- and then forfeited because of utilizing an ineligible player drew a record 43,000 into the Tigers' sunken arena.

Mizzou comes into this final intent on wiping out the stigma of last week's 28-14 defeat by Oklahoma. Kansas also rapped by the Sooners -- 27-23, is anxious to avert personal embarrassment and red faces among the Orange Bowl sponsors.

The Bengals still rank first in the Big Eight's four defensive categories -- while Coach Pepper

Rodgers' Jayhawks are first in three offensive categories. Most intriguing figure is K.U.'s 39.9-point game average, tops nationally, and the Bengals' 11.7 defensive yield, best in the conference.

Tough, tireless Stee Owens smudged Mizzou's defensive reputation at Norman -- with clever Bobby Warmack directing the assault expertly calling on Eddie Hinton and Mike Harper for the long gainers.

This Saturday, Ol' Mizzou's defensive dilemma is not a bit eased. The Riggins brothers -- Junior and John -- are speedy, slashing ball-carriers. Donnie Shanklin, nimble all-the-way threat carries the league's best rushing average -- 6.6 yards a play -- with John Riggins next at 6.4 Then there's Bobby Douglass at quarterback, the 215-pound senior who lends his own brilliance to an already glittering defensive yield, best in the conference.

Douglass, personally chewed up the Tigers a year ago at Lawrence in that 17-6 contest -- and is currently second on the loop's total offense tables with 1,625 yards, or a 5.7 yard average every time he handles the football. He leads the circuit in scoring passes with 11.

By Ron Jaynes

A perfect night in the North Pemiscot basketball tournament at Ross last night boosted our calling percentage to .846 with 11 of 13 calls correct in the first week of our prognosticating.

Here's the way it looks from our corner for tonight's action.

North Pemiscot Tourney
Delta C-7 vs. Gideon--Coach John Shock's Bulldogs surely won't be surprised again...this soon. They had better watch out as the upset bug slipped last night. We'll stay with the New Madrid county foe. Gideon 68, Delta C-7 51.

Clarkton vs. Hayti
Central--Central made its presence felt Tuesday night when it took Gideon out of the championship running. It'll be hard to stop tonight. Hayti Central 73, Clarkton 64.

REGULAR SCHEDULE

Big Eight Showdown at Columbia

COLUMBIA -- The last time Missouri and Kansas met for a Big Eight football championship the non-winning team lost a probable national championship but went to a major bowl.

That was in 1960. This Saturday in jam-packed Memorial Stadium, the same two border foe will trade licks in another "big one" -- a sellout every bit as meaningful as that vendetta eight years ago.

Both are 5-1 in conference combat and the winner will earn a minimum co-championship -- with a shot at an outright title should Oklahoma (4-1) stumble against Nebraska or Oklahoma State. The surging Sooners are paired with S.M.U. in the Bluebonnet bowl.

A bulging turnout of 60,500 will watch the two old foes play game No. 77 in the nation's oldest collegiate gridiron feud west of the Mississippi. final intent on wiping out the stigma of last week's 28-14 defeat by Oklahoma. Kansas also rapped by the Sooners -- 27-23, is anxious to avert personal embarrassment and red faces among the Orange Bowl sponsors.

The Bengals still rank first in the Big Eight's four defensive categories -- while Coach Pepper Rodgers' Jayhawks are first in three offensive categories. Most intriguing figure is K.U.'s 39.9-point game average, tops nationally, and the Bengals' 11.7 defensive yield, best in the conference.

Stouter defense, led by Benhardt and Bill Schmitt, linebacker Emory Hicks, massive guards Roger Boyd and Capt. tackle Karl Salb (270) and end Carl Garber; and safety Roger John Zook, is a hallmark of this Wehrli.

Miami-bound outfit too. The Black and Gold must regenerate an offense that featured only Jon Stagers' skittery junior against the quick-reacting Sooners. Defensive pride obviously is sorely in need of rehabilitation after yielding 270 rushing yards and four touchdowns, both seasonal highs, to O.U.

Except for halfback Henry Brown, lost for the year with a fractured shoulder, the Missourians are physically fit. Twelve Tiger seniors, nine of them regulars will be seen for the last time in Memorial Stadium.

Finishing up at home are: Offense -- Ends Chuck Weber, Jim Juras and Jim Judd; tackle Jim Anderson; center Con Rees; and the fullback Larry Moore.

Defense: Ends Elmer Stouter and Bill Schmitt; tackle Karl Salb (270) and end Carl Garber; and safety Roger John Zook, is a hallmark of this Wehrli.

WARDELL -- Wulin defeated Holcomb 64-55, in a consolation semi-final basketball game, and North Pemiscot downed Cooter 87-62, in the winners semi-finals of the North Pemiscot Invitational Tournament last night.

In the consolation tournament like North Pemiscot's, the first round losers battled between themselves for a shot at a consolation trophy. The winners will go for the championship.

In the consolation semi-finals last night, Mike Hopkins was the high point man for Quin. He ran up 20 points. Sonny Bailey scored 20 points for Holcomb, but was unable to win the game by himself. Quin led Holcomb in score by quarters for the first half which ended with Quin ahead 36-24.

In the second half, Holcomb made a comeback, leading in points for the second half but it could not recover Quins early lead.

In the championship finals, Ronnie Womble, amassed 30 points to lead North Pemiscot's charge of victory over Cooter. Benny Flowers led Cooter's scorers, racking up 24 points.

North Pemiscot scored erratically throughout the game.

MIAA Champs to End Grid Season in Arkansas

CAPE GIRARDEAU Southeast Missouri State, newly-crowned Football champion of the MIAA, ends its season Saturday afternoon with a 2:30 game in Russellville, Ark., against Arkansas Tech.

The contest shapes up as a sort of unofficial inter-state title bout since Arkansas Tech last weekend assured itself of at least a share of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference championship with a 21-7 win over Harding College.

Cape won its second straight MIAA title last Saturday by trouncing previously-unbeaten Central Missouri State 35-7.

The outing also marks the second time in as many weeks that the Indians have come up against a nationally-ranked team.

Central Missouri's Mules were ranked 11th among small college teams before last weekend. The Wonder Boys are rated 9th by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

One of the few teams to play 11 games, Arkansas Tech has a 9-1 record. Ouachita Baptist University squeaked by the Wonder Boys 13-10 two weeks ago.

Indian Coach Tom Thrower puts the Wonder Boys in the class with Delta State and Murray State, two teams which solidly whipped the Indians in early games. He said Saturday's match "could be the toughest all year" for his club.

Thrower points out that it may be difficult for the Indians to get up for the game, since they reached their mental peak for last Saturday's conference finale.

He also notes that Cape teams of the past seemed to suffer a letdown after the finish of the conference schedule. "We have won only two games in the past 13 years after the conference season," he said.

One of these was in 1967 against this same Arkansas school. The score was 21-10, but the Wonder Boys according to Thrower, put up a real struggle and were without the services of two starting backs who were sidelined by injuries.

The two, junior fullback Bill Nelson and senior tailback Danny Woodard, along with 22 other returning lettermen, are expected to see plenty of action Saturday.

The Indians will also have to contend with the passing of senior quarterback back Leon Anderson, who established a Tech individual passing record last year. His favorite receiver is senior Don Thone, shifted from split end to wingback for this season, who hauled in 50 tosses for 712 yards last year.

Tech's offensive line includes two returning regulars in 210-pound junior tackle Gary Branch and 200-pound sophomore guard James Murphy. The Wonder Boys' defensive unit has an experienced secondary and includes two All-AIC selections from last season, R. E. Hodges a senior back, and Rick Chudy, a 25-pound junior noseman.

Thrower will go Saturday with the same line-ups he has used since mid-season. The offensive platoon includes seven seniors three juniors and one sophomore. The defensive unit has three seniors, two juniors four sophomores and two freshmen.

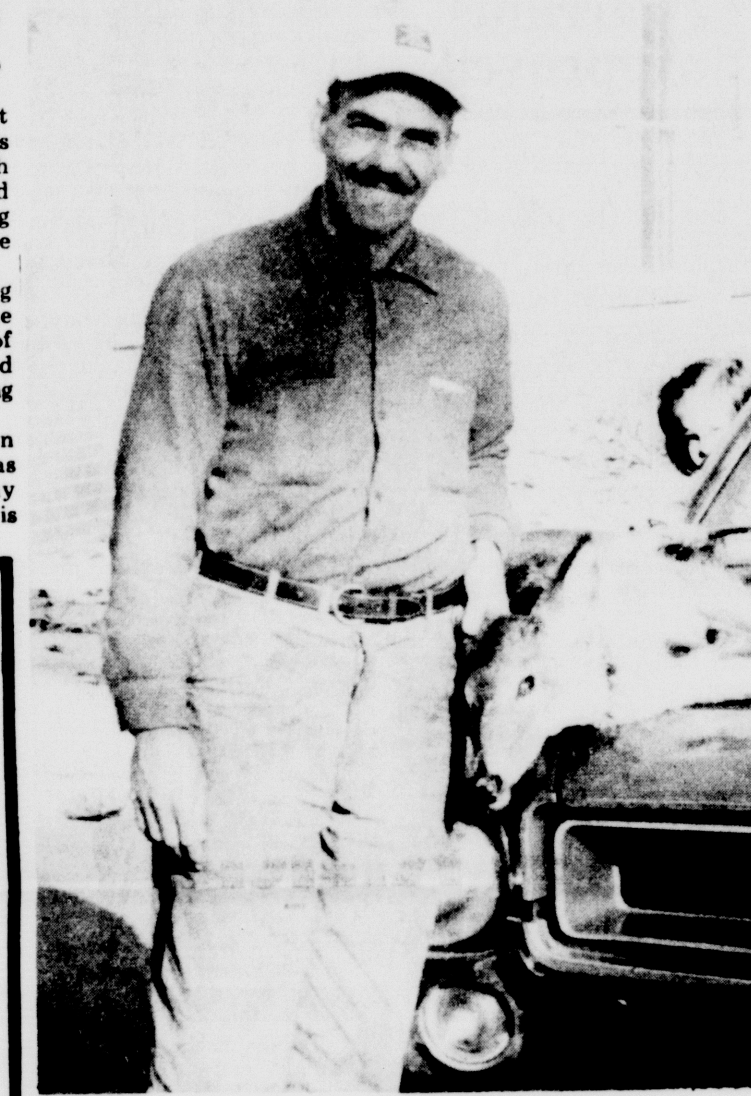

Senior tailback Walt Smallwood of Webster Groves is the league's leading scorer with 90 points and has compiled nearly twice as much rushing yardage as any other back in the loop.

Junior quarterback Greg Schroeder of St. Louis leads the conference in the number of passes attempted and completed and is second in total passing yardage.

Senior tailback John Diepenbrock of St. Louis has caught more passes than any other league competitor and is also second in total yardage.

MRS. BUT STONE, former resident of Sikeston and now of Poplar Bluff displays a deer she killed. It weighed 170 pounds.

BUD STONE, Poplar Bluff, shows off the 110 pounder he got two hours after the deer season opened near Van Buren. He is a former police officer of Sikeston.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) The University of Maryland entertains defending champion St. Louis U. today in the second round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association soccer playoffs.

Both teams are unbeaten in 1968. The Billikens eliminated West Virginia in the NCAA first round.

St. Louis has won six of nine previous NCAA championships, five outright. The Billikens shared last year's title with Michigan State.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rule changes were discussed today by the American Powerboat Association at its 1968 convention here.

Chicago and New Orleans submitted bids to hold next year's convention. The New Orleans group asked it be given consideration for 1970 if not chosen for next year.

SEMO Opens Cage Season In St. Louis Nov. 30

CAPE GIRARDEAU Southeast Missouri State College will open its 22-game basketball schedule on the road Nov. 30 against the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

The Indians will play seven games through Dec. 19, then rest until Jan. 4 when they begin the remainder of their schedule. Three home games are slated in December, beginning with McKendree College of Lebanon, Ill. on Dec. 5.

Head Coach Charles Parsley hopes his cagers can rebound from last year's 9-13 record, the only losing season he has ever recorded as a coach. But he has his reservations.

The veteran Indian mentor said he is operating with a "skeleton crew" this season.

He explained, "We were hurt real badly in our recruiting program when two junior college transfers and two top freshmen prospects we had signed decided to go elsewhere at the last minute."

"This left us real short. We don't have that many scholarships to give in the first place and just couldn't afford to lose four guys."

As a result, only 10 players, including one freshman, will be carried on the varsity roster, at least until the spring semester when two others are supposed to become eligible.

However, five of the 10 are lettermen, two were regulars last season and one started part-time.

Parsley said the team's strengths at this point appear to be speed and shooting ability. Its weaknesses are size and bench support. "We just don't have them," he said.

Returning regulars are captain Dan Milligan, a 6-3 senior from Bethalto, Ill. and Dan May, a 6-foot sophomore from Belleville, Ill. Milligan was the team's leading scorer and rebounder last season, averaging 17.2 points per game and 8.8 rebounds. May is shaping up as the squad's chief playmaker, according to Parsley.

The part-time starter back this winter is Charles Davenport of Clinton, Ill., the tallest man of the team at 6-7.

Other lettermen are Roger Drake, a 6-5 senior from Bethalto and Don Metz, a 5-11 junior from Oran, Mo.

Parsley will also carry on the varsity roster Fred Anderson, a 5-11 junior college transfer from St. Louis; Larry Briggs, a 6-1 sophomore from Charleston, Mo.; John Merrick, a 5-9 junior from Benton, Mo.; John Shoush, a 6-1 senior from Festus, Mo.; and Don Tuttle, a 6-6 freshman from Roxana, Ill.

The two players to become eligible after this semester are Jim Long, a 5-11 transfer from Paducah Junior College, and John Stuhlmann, a 6-4 sophomore from St. Louis.

Turning to the schedule, Parsley called it "the toughest in the school's history."

The Indians will play home and home contests with two NCAA University Division teams — Arkansas State University of Jonesboro and Austin Peay of Clarksville, Tenn., a member of the tough Ohio Valley Conference.

They will also entertain

Kentucky Wesleyan of Owensboro, rated number one in the small college ranks last season, and Illinois State of Normal, rated among the top ten, not to mention MIAA and national power, Southeast Missouri State of Springfield.

Parsley sees the MIAA race this year as well balanced, although Springfield is definitely the team to beat he says. The Bears lost only one regular, he noted.

Springfield has won the conference three years running and will be out to tie the record set by Parsley-coached teams which captured MIAA crowns four years straight from the '60-61 season through the '63-64 season.

Three of those Southeast Missouri teams went on to win the NCAA regional playoff and compete in the national small college tournament. The '60-61 squad was the national runner-up.

The high mark of Cape's losing season last year was a one-point decision over Springfield at a time when the Bears were ranked fourth nationally. It was the first Bear defeat in the conference in 30 games.

Parsley, who has been at Southeast Missouri for 11 years, has an overall win-loss record of 158-74.

MIAA Champs to End Grid Season in Arkansas

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Southeast Missouri State, newly crowned MIAA champion of the MIAA, ends its season Saturday afternoon with a 2:30 game in Russellville, Ark., against Arkansas Tech.

The contest shapes up as a sort of unofficial inter-state title bout since Arkansas Tech last weekend assured itself of at least a share of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference championship with a 21-7 win over Harding College.

Cape won its second straight MIAA title last Saturday by trouncing previously-unbeaten Central Missouri State 35-7.

The outing also marks the second time in as many weeks that the Indians have come up against a nationally-ranked team.

Central Missouri's Mules were ranked 11th among small college teams before last weekend. The Wonder Boys are rated 9th by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

One of the few teams to play 11 games, Arkansas Tech has a 9-1 record. Ouachita Baptist University squeaked by the Wonder Boys 13-10 two weeks ago.

Indian Coach Tom Thrower puts the Wonder Boys in the class with Delta State and Murray State, two teams which solidly whipped the Indians in early games. He said Saturday's match "could be the toughest all year" for his club.

Thrower points out that it may be difficult for the Indians to get up for the game, since they reached their mental peak for last Saturday's conference finale.

He also notes that Cape teams of the past seemed to suffer a letdown after the finish of the conference schedule. "We have won only two games in the past 13 years after the conference season," he said.

One of these was in 1967 against this same Arkansas school. The score was 21-10, but the Wonder Boys according to Thrower, put up a real struggle and were without the services of two starting backs who were sidelined by injuries.

The two, junior fullback Bill Nelson and senior tailback Danny Woodard, along with 22 other returning lettermen, are expected to see plenty of action Saturday.

The Indians will also have to contend with the passing of senior quarterback Leon Anderson, who established a Tech individual passing record last year. His favorite receives is senior Don Thone, shifted from split end to wingback for this season, who hauled in 50 tosses for 712 yards last year.

Tech's offensive line includes two returning regulars in 210-pound junior tackle Gary Branch and 200-pound sophomore guard James Murphy. The Wonder Boys' defensive unit has an experienced secondary and includes two All-AIC selections from last season, R. E. Hodges a senior back, and Rick Chudy, a 25-pound junior noseman.

Thrower will go Saturday with the same line-ups he has used since mid-season. The offensive platoon includes seven seniors, three juniors and one sophomore. The defensive unit has three seniors, two juniors, four sophomores and two freshmen.

Senior tailback Walt Smallwood of Webster Groves is the league's leading scorer with 90 points and has compiled nearly twice as much rushing yardage as any other back in the loop.

Junior quarterback Greg Schroeder of St. Louis leads the conference in the number of passes attempted and completed and is second in total passing yardage.

Senior tailback John Diepenbrock of St. Louis has caught more passes than any other league competitor and is also second in total yardage.

MRS. BUT STONE, former resident of Sikeston and now of Poplar Bluff, displays a deer she killed. It weighed 170 pounds.

BUD STONE, Poplar Bluff, shows off the 110 pounder he got two hours after the deer season opened near Van Buren. He is a former police officer of Sikeston.

The University of Maryland entertains defending champion St. Louis U. today in the second round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association soccer playoffs.

Both teams are unbeaten in 1968. The Billikens eliminated West Virginia in the NCAA first round.

St. Louis has won six of nine previous NCAA championships, five outright. The Billikens shared last year's title with Michigan State.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rule changes were discussed today by the American Powerboat Association at its 1968 convention here.

Chicago and New Orleans submitted bids to hold next year's convention. The New Orleans group asked it be given consideration for 1970 if not chosen for next year.

SEMO Opens Cage Season In St. Louis Nov. 30

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Southeast Missouri State College will open its 22-game basketball schedule on the road Nov. 30 against the University of Missouri - St. Louis.

The Indians will play seven games through Dec. 19, then rest until Jan. 4 when they begin the remainder of their schedule. Three home games are slated in December, beginning with McKendree College of Lebanon, Ill. on Dec. 5.

Head Coach Charles Parsley hopes his cagers can rebound from last year's 9-13 record, the only losing season he has ever recorded as a coach. But he has his reservations.

The veteran Indian mentor said he is operating with a "skeleton crew" this season.

He explained, "We were hurt real badly in our recruiting program when two junior college transfers and two top freshmen prospects we had signed decided to go elsewhere at the last minute."

"This left us real short. We don't have that many scholarships to give in the first place and just couldn't afford to lose four guys."

As a result, only 10 players, including one freshman, will be carried on the varsity roster, at least until the spring semester when two others are supposed to become eligible.

However, five of the 10 are lettermen, two were regulars last season and one started part-time.

Parsley said the team's strengths at this point appear to be speed and shooting ability. Its weaknesses are size and bench support. "We just don't have them," he said.

Returning regulars are captain Dan Milligan, a 6-3 senior from Bethalto, Ill. and Dan May, a 6-foot sophomore from Belleville, Ill. Milligan was the team's leading scorer and rebounder last season, averaging 17.2 points per game and 8.8 rebounds. May is shaping up as the squad's chief playmaker, according to Parsley.

The part-time starter back this winter is Charles Davenport of Clinton, Ill., the tallest man of the team at 6-7.

Other lettermen are Roger Drake, a 6-5 senior from Bethalto and Don Metz, a 5-11 junior from Oran, Mo.

Parsley will also carry on the varsity roster Fred Anderson, a 5-11 junior college transfer from St. Louis; Larry Briggs, a 6-1 sophomore from Charleston, Mo.; John Merrick, a 5-9 junior from Benton, Mo.; John Shoush, a 6-1 senior from Festus, Mo.; and Don Tuttle, a 6-6 freshman from Roxana, Ill.

The two players to become eligible after this semester are Jim Long, a 5-11 transfer from Paducah Junior College, and John Stuhlmann, a 6-4 sophomore from St. Louis.

Turning to the schedule, Parsley called it "the toughest in the school's history."

The Indians will play home and home contests with two NCAA University Division teams - Arkansas State of Jonesboro and Austin Peay of Clarksville, Tenn., a member of the tough Ohio Valley Conference.

They will also entertain

Kentucky Wesleyan of Owensboro, rated number one in the small college ranks last season, and Illinois State of Normal, rated among the top ten, not to mention MIAA and national power, Southeast Missouri State of Springfield.

Parsley sees the MIAA race this year as well balanced, although Springfield is definitely the team to beat he says. The Bears lost only one regular, he noted.

Springfield has won the conference three years running and will be out to tie the record set by Parsley-coached teams which captured MIAA crowns four years straight from the '60-61 season through the '63-64 season.

Three of those Southeast Missouri teams went on to win the NCAA regional playoff and compete in the national small college tournament. The '60-61 squad was the national runner-up.

The high mark of Cape's losing season last year was a one-point decision over Springfield at a time when the Bears were ranked fourth nationally. It was the first defeat in the conference in 30 games.

Parsley, who has been at Southeast Missouri for 11 years, has an overall win-loss record of 158-74.

Dear Mr. Blanton,
I hope you forgive me for writing you, this complaint.

I am sending you this write up of the Woman's club. I sent this in with all the Jr. Club members names also Mrs. Elmer Poase and Mrs. Canedy who was the leaders of the program and she didn't use any of the names. I gave her all the names of the women who attended the convention. (They used the names this week in the Cape paper of their women who attended the convention) she didn't give it a heading and name of the members even found the write up. They have been calling me about it.

You know this club is one of the oldest in Sikeston and your mother was a charter member and I was very hurt.

We use these for our scrap book and the Jr. was our guest and they put the program as exchange program.

I know you have a new society editor and the first time

Page Library includes "The Musician," "The Web," "The Altar," "The Mortal," "5 Long Travel," "The Crucifixion," "The Black Man," sculpture of the artist and medical drawings.

I took our write up in, she waited a week before she used it and I called her and we had words and now she is really showing off. I hate for the club to be treated like this because she don't like me.

Thank you.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

I had reconfirmation recently that your vocational education program has attracted national attention. While serving as a representative from Missouri to the National Conference for Vocational Teacher Educator's Seminar sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education and the National Center for Vocational Leadership Development located on a part of the Ohio State University, Columbus, representatives asked about what they had heard of the outstanding vocational program in Sikeston. They wanted to know specifically the courses offered and to whom. They were particularly interested in the high percentage of high school level students being involved in an exploration for and preparation for work. The pre-vocational experience for Sophomores being rotated through the various shops and areas currently seems to evoke the most comments. They are amazed at how so many youth and adults are being saved in non-traditional vocational subjects as well as the old traditional ones. I was proud to be able to provide some of the answers and with recent outstanding briefings by many of the administrative staff and teachers, I am writing some of the people from the other states.

Certainly the high school age student or adult in the Sikeston geographic area who formerly would have no opportunity for realistic job training has a better chance.

Sincerely,
Bryce D. March, Head
Industrial and Technical Education

Att: Charles L. Blanton

Dear Mr. Blanton,
I hope you forgive me for writing you this complaint.

I am sending you this write up of the Woman's club. I sent this in with all the Jr. Club members names also Mrs. Elmer Poage and Mrs. Canedy who was the leaders of the program and she didn't use any of the names.

I gave her all the names of the women who attended the convention. (They used the names this week in the Cape paper of their women who attended the convention) she didn't give it a heading and name of the members even found the write up. They have been calling me about it.

You know this club is one of the oldest in Sikeston and your mother was a charter member and I was very hurt.

We use these for our scrap book and the Jr. was our guest and they put the program as exchange program.

I know you have a new society editor and the first time

I took our write up in, she waited a week before she used it and I called her and we had words and now she is really showing off. I hate for the club to be treated like this because she don't like me.

Thank you.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

I had reconfirmation recently that your vocational education program has attracted national attention. While serving as a representative from Missouri to the National Conference for Vocational Teacher Educator's Seminar sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education and the National Center for Vocational Leadership Development located on a part of the Ohio State University, Columbus, representatives asked about what they had heard of the outstanding vocational program in Sikeston. They wanted to know specifically the courses offered and to whom. They were particularly interested in the high percentage of high school level students being involved in an exploration for and preparation for work. The pre-vocational experience for Sophomores being rotated through the various shops and areas currently seems to evoke the most comments. They are amazed at how so many youth and adults are being saved in non-traditional vocational subjects as well as the old traditional ones. I was proud to be able to provide some of the answers and with recent outstanding briefings by many of the administrative staff and teachers, I am writing some of the people from the other states.

Certainly the high school age student or adult in the Sikeston geographic area who formerly would have no opportunity for realistic job training has a better chance.

Sincerely,
Bryce D. March, Head

Escapes Linked To Robbery-Rape Of Newlyweds

CHICAGO (AP) — Two fugitives from a federal prison were sought today as suspects in the robbery of a honeymoon couple and the rape of the bride Sunday night in a North Side motel.

Police said Tuesday they would ask the FBI in Washington for prison photographs of Patrick D. Kane, 43, and Dale G. Wilson, 24, to see if a young married couple from Michigan could identify the men as their assailants.

CHARLES SAPPENFIELD, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Sappenfield, was pledged to Theta Chi fraternity, Epsilon Phi chapter at Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg. He is a freshman, majoring in physical education.

Man Who Drove State Seal From Guthrie to Oklahoma City Dies

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The man who drove the covered wagon carrying the state seal when the Oklahoma capital was secretly moved late at night from Guthrie to Oklahoma City has died.

William E. Kile died Monday night at the age of 89.

Kile was among a small band of citizens who slipped into Guthrie on the night of June 11, 1910, and took the state seal to Oklahoma City a few hours after Oklahomans had voted to move the state capital. The secret transfer was made to forestall legal maneuvering by Guthrie citizens.

Mayor Speaks To Club

MARSTON — Twenty-one members attended the meeting of the Civic club at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the recreational room of the United Methodist church.

Mrs. Bobby Williams, president, presided.

Program yearbooks will be prepared and federation dues paid.

The bean supper Saturday was reported to be successful.

Mayor Jack Mahar spoke on the "Needs of the City." He expressed gratification for the organization of the club. He outlined the needs of the fire department and told how the club can help the community.

A potluck dinner and Christmas gift exchange will be held at 7 p.m. Dec. 16 at the church.

Mrs. Louise Stevens and Mrs. Vernon Hamlin were welcomed as new members.

Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Haley Mahar, Mrs. Alma Mahar and Mrs. Lorene Griffey.

Norman Thomas 84 Years Old

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Norman Thomas, six-time presidential candidate of the Socialist party, celebrated his 84th birthday Wednesday. He was in good spirits but gloomy about the state of the nation.

"The state of the country is not too good," he said from his bed in a nursing home where he has been since last winter. "In fact, it's quite capable of going to hell!"

"It's partly because the country lacks the leadership it needs," he said. "It's partly our general morale is low. And it's partly because our democracy at the moment is suffering from a general lack of sense."

Thomas is virtually sightless, must use a hearing aid and suffers from arthritis and hardening of the arteries. Despite his troubles he has managed to dictate a new book of essays and remains cheerful.

Agnew Compared With Truman

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., compared Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew Wednesday with President Harry S. Truman, and indicated he is reserving judgment on Agnew.

A man can't be judged on his past credentials alone, Hatfield said in response to a question from a student after he had addressed the Willamette University student body.

Hatfield said Truman was an unsuccessful small-business man and undistinguished senator before he became vice president. He added that "history already has given him a spot as one of our most effective presidents."

"Let's wait," he said of Agnew. "He should stimulate everybody's prayers."

We thought the fellow across the desk from us was a perfect idiot, but he did something in correct fashion just this morning.

ITU Head Approves Religious Leaders Being Union Referees

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The acting head of the International Teamsters Union approved a recommendation Tuesday that an impartial committee made up of at least three religious leaders referee the mail election of Local 60 in St. Louis.

The method of balloting by mail to pick officers has been criticized by some members of the union, Frank Fitzsimmons, acting head of the international, agreed to the overseeing committee and directed the local to follow the recommendations set down by three international vice presidents.

Members of the overseeing committee have not been chosen yet, an official said. They will watch the placing of ballots in the mail, to be done no later than Nov. 22. Counting of the ballots is to take place Dec. 13, 14 and 15.

Arlington Cemetery View Stirs Visions of Kennedys' Sorrows

WASHINGTON (AP) — At Edward Kennedy—"Ted," the night you can look westward baby of the family—was flying across the Potomac from Washington to West Washington and see, high on a Springfield, Mass., to receive the hillside, the restless flame that Democratic nomination for marks the grave of John F. Kennedy. And you think of five private plane smashed into an apple orchard, killing the pilot and Kennedy's administrative assistant. The senator's spine was broken in six places.

For months Ted Kennedy lay immobilized in a special frame. While his wife Joan carried on Minnesota stepped up his challenge of Vietnam war policies by campaigning for the presidential nomination and that if re-elected he would walk unaided into the Senate chamber the following January.

In the absence of any word from Johnson on his choice for a running mate, friends urged for Robert Kennedy to run for the New Hampshire primary that senator from New York. Four days after Ted's plane crash, Robert took himself out of the New York race.

The pressure continued: Kennedy for veep. Robert did little if anything to discourage the clamor. But at the end of July, Johnson announced that no member of his cabinet would be selected and not long afterward Robert Kennedy changed his mind and became a candidate for the Senate.

The emotion generated for the Kennedys burst forth at the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City as Robert introduced a film eulogizing his brother. For 13 minutes he stood on the podium as wave after wave of applause rolled over him.

And when he went on the stump in New York, he was met everywhere by adulating crowds. As always, there were those who resented the Kennedy pushes. They called Robert a carpetbagger because his home, late for primary challenges, also nominally, had been Hyannis Port, Mass.

Robert was elected that fall with a plurality of 700,000 votes over veteran Republican Sen. Kenneth Keating. In debate, as in a speech at an Massachusetts, Ted Kennedy won by an even bigger margin. On Jan. 4, 1965, the Kennedy brothers entered the Senate chamber together. Ted walked to his seat, as he pledged, Israel's survival.

For Robert there always were the memories of John Kennedy with whom he had shared much. He climbed a Yukon peak named for his brother; he went often to his brother's grave; he backed his brother's widow, Jacqueline in a public squabble with author William Manchester over passages in the book, "Death of a President," a matter finally settled out of court.

As a senator, Robert involved himself in the problems of the cities and in foreign affairs, especially the Vietnam war, which he opposed.

More and more, Robert Kennedy took issue with President Johnson's Vietnam policies. He was against resuming bombing after a temporary halt in January 1966 and 1967. He supported Viet Cong representation in any coalition government of South Vietnam; he opposed escalating the war.

Despite efforts to gain privacy for himself and his children, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy made news. She was voted the "most admired" woman in America in 1965 and 1966; she headed an aid fund for Italian flood damage; she attended the christening of a carrier named for her husband. There was an unceasing barrage of innumerable stories in movie magazines, linking her name with various celebrities.

As the election year 1968 neared, another Democrat—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy—stepped up his challenge of Vietnam war policies by campaigning for the presidential nomination and that if re-elected he would walk unaided into the Senate chamber the following January.

In the absence of any word from Johnson on his choice for a running mate, friends urged for Robert Kennedy to run for the New Hampshire primary that senator from New York. Four days after Ted's plane crash, Robert took himself out of the New York race.

The pressure continued: Kennedy for veep. Robert did little if anything to discourage the clamor. But at the end of July, Johnson announced that no member of his cabinet would be selected and not long afterward Robert Kennedy changed his mind and became a candidate for the Senate.

The emotion generated for the Kennedys burst forth at the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City as Robert introduced a film eulogizing his brother. For 13 minutes he stood on the podium as wave after wave of applause rolled over him.

And when he went on the stump in New York, he was met everywhere by adulating crowds. As always, there were those who resented the Kennedy pushes. They called Robert a carpetbagger because his home, late for primary challenges, also nominally, had been Hyannis Port, Mass.

Robert was elected that fall with a plurality of 700,000 votes over veteran Republican Sen. Kenneth Keating. In debate, as in a speech at an Massachusetts, Ted Kennedy won by an even bigger margin. On Jan. 4, 1965, the Kennedy brothers entered the Senate chamber together. Ted walked to his seat, as he pledged, Israel's survival.

For Robert there always were the memories of John Kennedy with whom he had shared much. He climbed a Yukon peak named for his brother; he went often to his brother's grave; he backed his brother's widow, Jacqueline in a public squabble with author William Manchester over passages in the book, "Death of a President," a matter finally settled out of court.

As a senator, Robert involved himself in the problems of the cities and in foreign affairs, especially the Vietnam war, which he opposed.

More and more, Robert Kennedy took issue with President Johnson's Vietnam policies. He was against resuming bombing after a temporary halt in January 1966 and 1967. He supported Viet Cong representation in any coalition government of South Vietnam; he opposed escalating the war.

Despite efforts to gain privacy for himself and his children, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy made news. She was

On June 4, the California primary ended in a victory for Kennedy. That night he went into the Embassy Room of the Ambassador Hotel to speak to more than 2,000 celebrating workers.

"My thanks to all of you," he said, "and it's on to Chicago and let's win there."

A few minutes later, Robert Kennedy was shot by an assassin lurking in a kitchen hallway near the bathroom. The man arrested and charged with the shooting was a Jordanian Arab uprooted by the 1948 Arab-Israeli war.

Once more there was a funeral service attended by the great and the prominent. Millions lined the route of the train taking the body of Robert from New York to Washington. Thousands more lined the route through the capital to Arlington where he was buried 60 feet from John.

Soon voices rose again across the land—this time urging Ted Kennedy for vice president, for president. But Ted said no; not this year. He chose privacy, and gained it except for a few appearances in behalf of Hubert Humphrey's unsuccessful campaign for President.

For a few weeks the Kennedy family departed the public arena. Then, in October, a month and a few days from the five year anniversary of John Kennedy's death, Jacqueline Kennedy remarried. The bridegroom was 62-year-old Aristotle Socrates Onassis, a Greek millionaire.

To many Americans, the marriage was all wrong; Onassis' age, his well-publicized affairs with prominent women; his divorce; and their religious differences. Onassis is Greek Orthodox; her religion, like the Kennedys, is Roman Catholic.

In the Kennedy family, little is done in public without arousing controversy. And so it was with John Kennedy's widow.

At Arlington, little has changed in five years. Except that when you look westward across the Potomac and see the flickering flame, you think of two Kennedy dead instead of one.

Escapes Linked To Robbery-Rape Of Newlyweds

CHICAGO (AP) — Two fugitives from a federal prison were sought today as suspects in the robbery of a honeymoon couple and the rape of the bride Sunday night in a North Side motel.

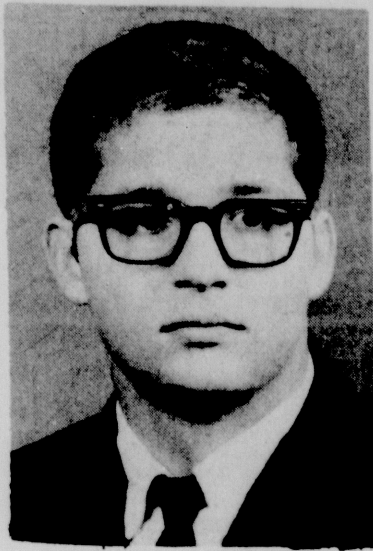

Police said Tuesday they would ask the FBI in Washington for prison photographs of Patrick D. Kane, 43, and Dale G. Wilson, 24, to see if a young married couple from Michigan could identify the men as their assailants.

The newlyweds, whom police declined to identify, were terrorized in their Chicago motel room by two patrons of the hotel, authorities said. The couple had been married in a Detroit suburb Saturday night.

Kane, a convicted bank robber, and Wilson, charged with murder, escaped Thursday from a U.S. marshal in Warren, Mo. They overpowered guards while being transferred from the Leavenworth, Kan., Penitentiary to a federal court in St. Louis.

Kane and Wilson were hunted by Chicago police on the basis of descriptions provided by the newlyweds.

Investigators said the bridegroom, 23, was bound to a chair and his head was covered with a bedsheet. His wife, 21, was raped, police said.

CHARLES SAPPENFIELD, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Sappenfield, was pledged to Theta Chi fraternity, Epsilon Phi chapter at Central Missouri State college in Warrensburg. He is a freshman, majoring in physical education.

Man Who Drove State Seal From Guthrie to Oklahoma City Dies

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The man who drove the covered wagon carrying the state seal when the Oklahoma capital was secretly moved late at night from Guthrie to Oklahoma City has died.

William E. Kile died Monday night at the age of 89.

Kile was among a small band of citizens who slipped into Guthrie on the night of June 11, 1910, and took the state seal to Oklahoma City a few hours after Oklahoma City was founded. The secret transfer was made to forestall legal maneuvering by Guthrie citizens.

Mayor Speaks To Club

MARSTON — Twenty-one members attended the meeting of the Civic club at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the recreational room of the United Methodist church.

Mrs. Bobby Williams, president, presided.

Program yearbooks will be prepared and federation dues paid.

The bean supper Saturday was reported to be successful.

Mayor Jack Mahar spoke on the "Needs of the City". He expressed gratification for the organization of the club. He outlined the needs of the fire department, and told how the club can help the community.

A potluck dinner and Christmas gift exchange will be held at 7 p.m. Dec. 16 at the church.

Mrs. Louise Stevens and Mrs. Vernon Hamlin were welcomed as new members.

Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Haley Mahar, Mrs. Alma Mahar and Mrs. Lorene Griffey.

Norman Thomas 84 Years Old

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Norman Thomas, six-time presidential candidate of the Socialist party, celebrated his 84th birthday Wednesday. He was in good spirits but gloomy about the state of the nation.

"The state of the country is not too good," he said from his bed in a nursing home where he has been since last winter. "In fact, it's quite capable of going to hell!"

"It's partly because the country lacks the leadership it needs," he said. "It's partly our general morale is low. And it's partly because our democracy at the moment is suffering from a general lack of sense."

Thomas is virtually sightless, must use a hearing aid and suffers from arthritis and hardening of the arteries. Despite his troubles he has managed to dictate a new book of essays and remains cheerful.

Agnew Compared With Truman

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., compared Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew Wednesday with President Harry S. Truman, and indicated he is reserving judgment on Agnew.

A man can't be judged on his past credentials alone, Hatfield said in response to a question from a student after he had addressed the Willamette University student body.

Hatfield said Truman was an unsuccessful small-business man and undistinguished senator before he became vice president. He added that "history already has given him a spot as one of our most effective presidents."

"Let's wait," he said of Agnew. "He should stimulate everybody's prayers."

We thought the fellow across the desk from us was a perfect idiot, but he did something in correct fashion just this morning.

Those who come to pay their respects to Robert Kennedy, not yet dead six months, are the young, kids with bell-bottom trousers and peace symbols and medallions. They come to the place of the Kennedy dead with flowers and misty eyes.

Five years since Dallas.

It began with a political rift and a president who believed his presence was needed for the mending; with a mail-order gun fired from a sixth-floor window; with the death of the president.

The world was forever changed; so was the Kennedy family, at least in the eyes of the public.

The image of the president's widow became that of a queen: Robert Kennedy, the attorney general, became the heir-apparent. In the minds of many Americans it was assumed that eventually Robert would accede to the presidency and, who knows, someday Edward, already the holder of John's old seat in the Senate.

The grievous sound of muffled drums and the sight of John Kennedy's flag-draped coffin had barely faded from America's consciousness when speculation began about Robert Kennedy. He withdrew from the public gaze, there were reports of a rift with President Johnson.

Partly to squelch such talk, partly to bring Robert out of his depression, the President sent him early in 1964 to negotiate a cease-fire in Indonesian-Malaysian border clashes, and a dispute over stationing a NATO force to keep peace on Cyprus.

The attorney general set his theme of later years when he told Waseda University students in Japan: "If President Kennedy's life and death are to mean anything, we young people must work harder for a better life for all the people of the world."

Robert Kennedy could not help but hear the voices, in all parts of the land, urging that he be Lyndon Johnson's running mate in the November 1964 election.

At New Year, an Associated Press poll of Democratic county chairmen showed Bob second as their vice presidential preference, close behind Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota. In March, without any solicitation on his part, Kennedy got 25,861 write-in votes for vice president in the New Hampshire primary — 4,000 less than LBJ got for President.

Then came another tragedy.

Arlington Cemetery View Stirs Visions of Kennedys' Sorrows

WASHINGTON (AP) — At night you can look westward across the Potomac from Washington and see, high on a hillside, the restless flame that marks the grave of John F. Kennedy. And you think of five years ago today.

By day you stand at that serene place and let your eyes sweep the grandeur of Washington, taking note of the plain little white cross a few steps to your right. And you think of all that has happened in that five years to one proud family, the Kennedys.

John's assassination ... the plane crash that nearly killed Edward ... Robert's election to the Senate ... his campaign for the presidency ... the shot that ended his life ... the brief presidential boom for Edward ... the remarriage of Jacqueline Kennedy.

And through it all the mute suffering of Joseph P. Kennedy, the patriarch, paralyzed and short of speech by a stroke, and the valor of his wife, indomitable despite violent deaths that took four of her nine children, two of them since 1963.

It is November again at Arlington National Cemetery and the leaves are falling over row upon row of the white markers that cover its slopes. Time is suspended at Arlington and the passing of five years has done little to change its face. But the tomb of John Kennedy and the nearby grave of his brother Robert tell much about the front decade.

Mourners of the New Frontier unendingly make their pilgrimages to the graveside of the 46-year-old president, carved into the contours of the cemetery's slope. They come often with ornate wreaths to be placed behind the eternal flame that marks the grave.

In March, without any solicitation on his part, Kennedy got 25,861 write-in votes for vice president in the New Hampshire primary — 4,000 less than LBJ got for President.

Then came another tragedy.

Edward Kennedy — "Ted," the baby of the family — was flying from Washington to West Springfield, Mass., to receive the Democratic nomination for another term in the Senate. The private plane smashed into an apple orchard, killing the pilot and Kennedy's administrative assistant. The senator's spine was broken in six places.

For months Ted Kennedy lay immobilized in a special frame. While his wife Joan carried on his campaign, Ted went through the torture of retaining atrophied muscles. He vowed that if re-elected he would walk unaided into the Senate chamber the following January.

In the absence of any word from Johnson on his choice for a running mate, friends urged Robert Kennedy to run for senator from New York. Four days after Ted's plane crash, Robert took himself out of the New York race.

The pressure continued: Kennedy for veep. Robert did little if anything to discourage the clamor. But at the end of July, Johnson announced that no member of his cabinet would be selected and not long afterward Robert Kennedy changed his mind and became a candidate for the Senate.

The emotion generated for the Kennedys burst forth at the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City as Robert two weeks later, in an introduced a film eulogizing his brother. For 13 minutes he stood Johnson said he would not run on the podium as wave after wave of applause rolled over him.

And when he went on the stump in New York, he was met everywhere by adulating crowds. As always, there were those who resented the Kennedy pushovers. They called Robert a carpetbagger because his home, late for primary challenges, also nominally, had been Hyannis Port, Mass.

Robert was elected that fall with a plurality of 700,000 votes over veteran Republican Sen. Kenneth Keating. In Massachusetts, Ted Kennedy was by an even bigger margin. On Jan. 4, 1965, the Kennedy brothers entered the Senate chamber together. Ted walked to his seat, as he pledged, unaided.

As a senator, Robert involved himself in the problems of the cities and in foreign affairs, especially the Vietnam war, which he opposed.

More and more, Robert Kennedy took issue with President Johnson's Vietnam policies. He was against resuming bombing after a temporary halt in January 1966 and 1967. He supported Viet Cong representation in any coalition government of South Vietnam; he opposed escalating the war.

Despite efforts to gain privacy for herself and her children, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy made news. She was voted the "most admired" woman in America in 1965 and 1966; she headed an aid fund for Italian flood damage; she attended the christening of a carrier named for her husband. There was an unceasing barrage of innuendo stories in movie fan magazines, linking her name with various celebrities.

As the election year 1968 neared, another Democrat — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota — stepped up his challenge of Vietnam war policies by campaigning for the presidential nomination and there were rumblings he was a stalking horse for a Robert Kennedy candidacy. Both men denied it, and it wasn't until McCarthy came within an eyelash of defeating Johnson in the New Hampshire primary that Kennedy made a move. Then he lurked in the same Senate caucus chamber where his brother had announced eight years before to say that he too was in the race.

"I do not run for the presidency merely to oppose any man, but to propose new policy," said Robert Kennedy. "I run because I am convinced that this country is on a perilous course."

That was March 16 this year when it looked as if the only candidates for the Democratic nomination would be Lyndon Johnson and Eugene McCarthy. In an electrifying announcement, Johnson said he would not run on the podium as wave after wave of applause rolled over him.

Kennedy's slogan as he campaigned across the country. He won in Wisconsin, in Indiana, in Nebraska. Next came Oregon and a loss to McCarthy.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey, entering the race too late for primary challenges, also was busy campaigning. Then came June and the all-important California primary.

On June 1, Kennedy debated McCarthy on television. In that debate, as in a speech at an Oregon synagogue a few days earlier, he talked of this country's "clear and compelling" commitment to "defying any attempt to destroy Israel's survival."

Top-Heavy Scheme Falls Flat

MINNEAPOLIS — Can you figure this: 43-25-37? Or 47-29-38?

These pair, hmmm, of figures belong to Mrs. Geri Stotts and Francine Gottfried, the two gals who recently shook up Wall Street.

They also shook up an idea in the mind of Irv Schechtman.

He offered the two buxom beauties $2,000 a week — for limited engagements — to work as hostesses in his White House Inn, a bar and restaurant here.

However, he never heard from Francine, the 21-year-old computer operator from Brooklyn.

Repeat Performance?

"It seems that Francine really withdrew from society," Schechtman told NRN. "Her home phone was disconnected and the bank where she worked couldn't give us any information about her."

"The last we heard," he added, "was that she went to California. Obviously she was not out for any publicity and the whole thing was embarrassing to her."

On the other hand, he did hear from Mrs. Stotts, the 36-year-old office manager from Burbank, Calif.

"She told me her one-day trip to New York was fun," Schechtman said, "but she wasn't interested, especially seeing that she had a family to think about," he said.

So, it seems Schechtman's idea turned out to be a big bust.

Geri Stotts figured to bustle biz.

Franklin County Girls Go to Chicago 4-H Congress

Marcia Lawrence

Betty Wilmesher

Two Franklin County girls have been named delegates to the 47th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Dec. 1-5, for winning top state honors in leadership and swine projects supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

The winners, Betty Wilmesher, 19, of Union, and Marcia Lawrence, 17, of St. Clair, will join 1,650 other delegates from every state and Puerto Rico.

This year's congress, which will be held in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, will be based on the theme "Commitment to Responsibility." It will feature meetings, tours and entertainment, including a concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Miss Wilmesher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Wilmesher, has participated in leadership projects for five of her nine years of 4-H membership. Her award is sponsored by The Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

A sophomore at the University of Missouri, Miss Wilmesher credits 4-H Club work with teaching valuable lessons in cooperation and responsibility. She has applied her leadership talents to many activities, including supervising sewing projects for young 4-H'ers for the past two years.

Miss Wilmesher also has been a demonstration judge, which taught the fine points of participation and good sportsmanship. Her early work in sewing and cooking projects have led to an interest in home economics education.

Miss Lawrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lawrence, received her award from Moor-Mfg. Co. for taking the top state prize in the swine project. She has participated in swine projects every year since she joined 4-H at age 10.

Starting with one pig she got from her father, Miss Lawrence quickly learned good breeding and management techniques. She has expanded her projects every year and now has purchased 18 head of cattle from money she saved from selling her pigs.

Montana's Newest Town Coming Up Like a Gusher

By PAUL HUSTED

Editor, The Miles City Star

BELL CREEK, Mont. (AP)

A permanent population of between 500 and 600 is forecast for Montana's newest town, which is rapidly taking shape in the heart of giant Bell Creek Oil Field.

The estimate was made by Sam Gary, Denver oilman and discoverer of the oil field which is rated as the first giant field to be opened in the United States in the last 10 years.

Gary is developing the town, but he is quick to declare that Bell Creek will not be a "company town."

"All of the homes will be individually owned, and as the town develops the citizens of Bell Creek will set up a town government which will own the water supply, sewerage system, streets and parks and which will provide fire and police protection," he said.

Gary is building the town for the families of workmen who will be needed to continue production of oil from the 334 wells in Bell Creek field.

"We will need between 100 and 150 full-time employees in Bell Creek for at least 25 years," Gary said.

"For that reason, Bell Creek is no oil field camp."

"Since we were starting from nothing, we seized the opportunity to create something that will endure as a pleasant, attractive town in which to live," he said.

The town site was laid out and the houses were designed by Denver architects.

The homes are priced at $21,000 to $23,000. Each has three bedrooms, hot water heat and all electric and telephone lines are underground. Twelve houses are expected to be completed by Dec. 1, at which time the builder will finish shops, office, stores and warehouse buildings, and install a cable television system.

Then, construction will stop until weather permits outside work next spring.

The town includes permanent sites for 37 mobile homes. These are filled and 26 more mobile homes are in a temporary park.

"We don't know how many homes and mobile sites we will build, but we expect they will add up to more than 100," Gary said.

"That's undoubtedly a conservative figure, since our needs have always exceeded our estimates. We took a survey last spring and then built our elementary school to handle an estimated 40 children. But by the time school started, we had 70 pupils and had to rush construction on a large addition."

The addition houses an auditorium, which can be divided into four classrooms and which will be used for community meetings.

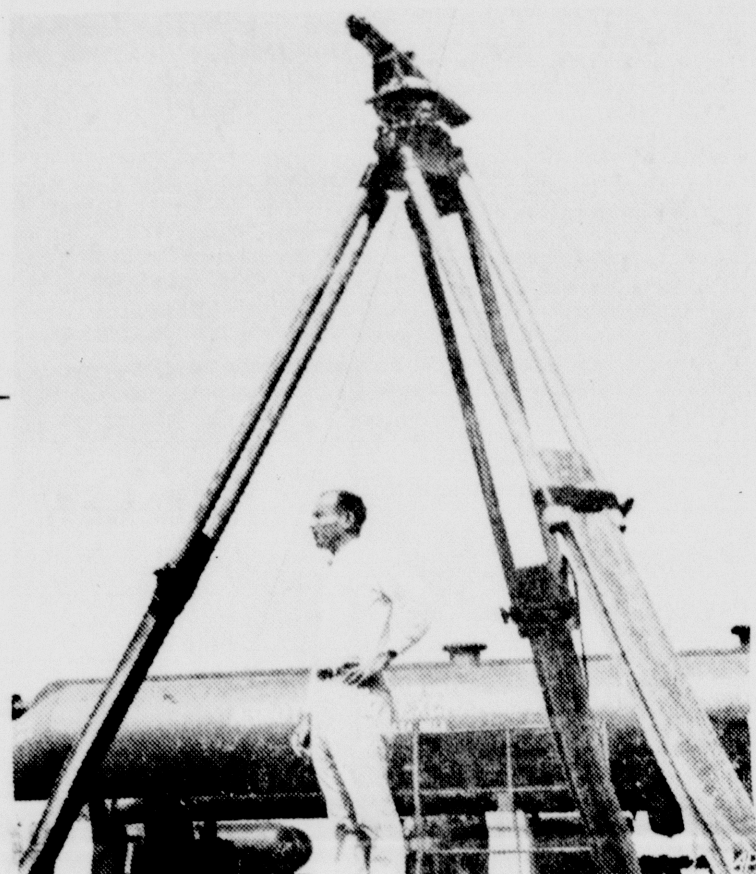

Fifteen older children are bused to Broadus for high school classes.

The future operations in Bell Creek will require workmen to operate and maintain the pumps and pipelines used in producing nearly 60,000 barrels of oil each day for transmission to Midwest refineries.

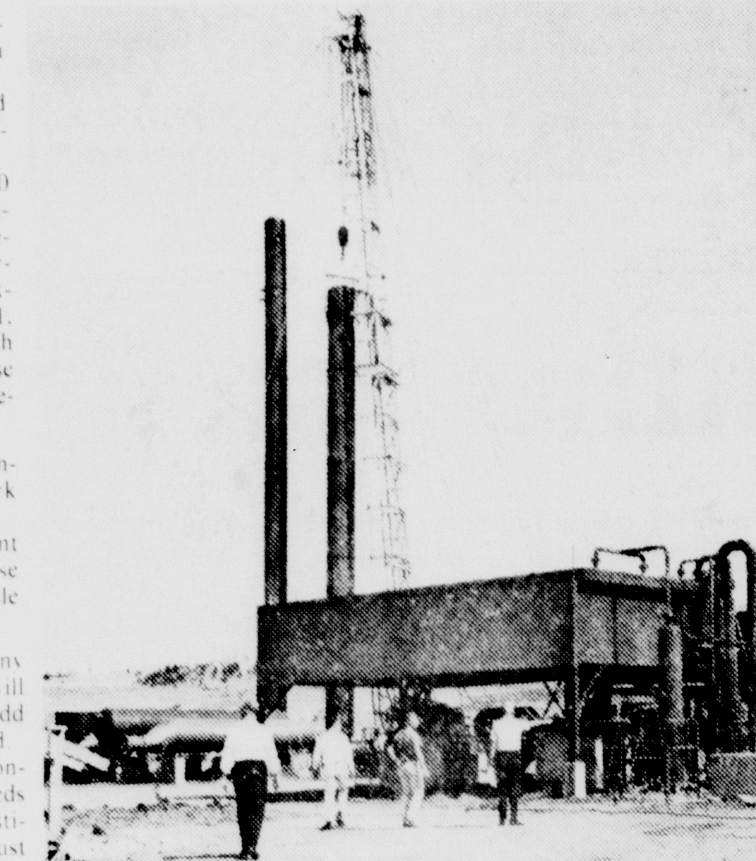

About 12 men will be needed to run Gary's new $2.8 million gas processing plant to process 23 million cubic feet of natural gas per day for Montana-Dakota Utilities Co., which will distribute the gas to customers in the Rapid City, S.D., area by means of a new pipeline system.

The gas plant will also process liquid propane gas, naphtha and other byproducts for sale in south-eastern Montana.

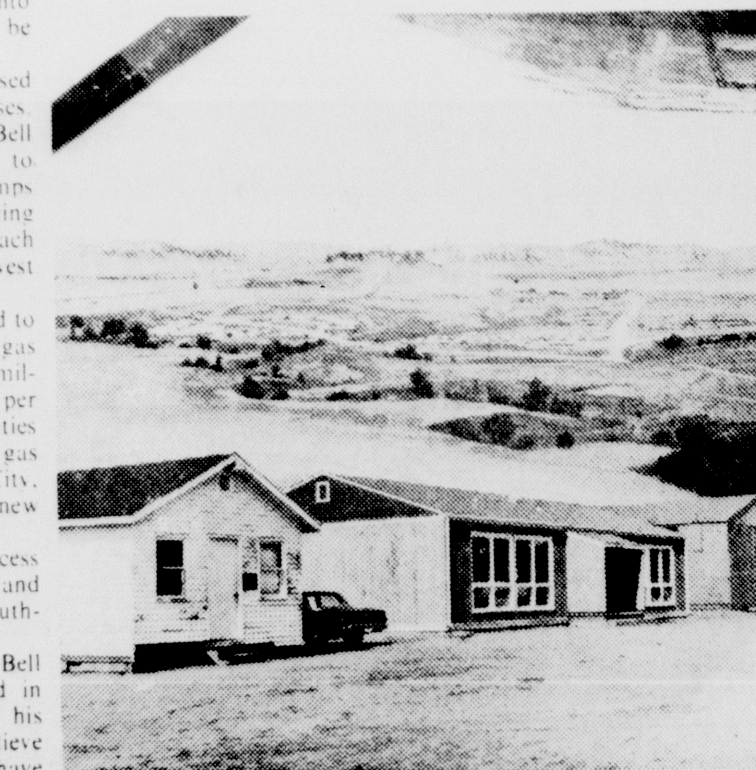

Drilling has slowed in Bell Creek, which was discovered in June of 1967, but Gary and his production superintendent believe that the field ultimately will have at least 400 producing wells. Of the 334 completed thus far, Gary owns 166.

SAM GARY, Denver oilman, has discovered a big oil field in Montana and is supervising the building of a town in the middle of it. But he declares it won't be a "company town."

A $2.8 MILLION GAS PLANT goes up in Bell Creek, Mont., to process 23 million cubic feet of natural gas per day plus liquid propane gas, naphtha and other byproducts.

AERIAL PHOTOGRAPH of the town of Bell Creek, Mont., a town that's being built — from scratch — as designed by Denver architects 166.

PEACEFUL ISLAND in the center of bustling Rome is the Piazza Navona, one of the city's favorite tourist haunts. The Piazza, site of Bernini's Fountain of the Four Rivers (background center), was permanently closed to vehicular traffic as part of a broad attack on the city's traffic problem.

DETECTIVE — E. T. Olds (center) talks informally with soldiers at Fort Gordon, Ga. The soldiers are (from left) Pvt. David Bryant, Pfc Wolf Metzger and Pvt. James Childs. Olds, a detective sergeant with the Augusta, Ga. police department, is a trained investigator. He spent nine years as a military policeman at Fort Gordon prior to entering his civilian occupation. Next February, Olds expects to graduate from Augusta Law School with an LL.D. degree.

OPEN WIDE — Sp4 Harold M. Simpson conducts a preliminary dental examination on this young lady from the Qui Non's Holy Infant Orphanage. Specialist Simpson is a member of the Dental Civic Action Projects sponsored by the 6th Evacuation Hospital, Qui Non, Republic of Vietnam. The young dental technician is from Painted Post, N.Y.

COUNTRY LOCATION - If you have been looking for the perfect place to live and raise a few cattle, keep your horses, raise a garden... then you will be interested in looking at this five acres located for privacy, but has good roads.
Beautiful location. This land has a spring that has water year around. The home has just been remodeled and has 2 large bedrooms, family room, living room, sun porch, 1 1/2 baths, utility room, and a wood-burning fireplace. It has other improvements including concrete storm cellar, garage, tool shed, large chicken house and a barn located about 100 yards from house. If you want country living with all the conveniences, then don't fail to see this one. Located 13 miles from Sikeston.

YOU'LL NEVER REGRET the day you finally decide to look at this beautiful three bedroom home. The exterior looks like it was only built yesterday. One of the bedrooms has a vanity built completely across one wall. The living room is exceptionally large and has carpet. Home is completely heated with convenient, economical hot water heat. Let me show you this home located at 710 Allen, the price has been reduced $1400 for quick sale.

TOWN & COUNTRY LOCATION - We have a nice selection of brick homes, some with basements and two with garages.
All of these homes have built-in oven and range all have carpet in living rooms and bedrooms. These homes are reasonable in price and one of them will surely fit your need.
Don't Wait! Now is the right time to buy a home!

I now have a good selection of homes from the low price range and up to $35,000. Let me show you and help you find the home you need at your convenience. All types of financing available.

If You Were the Judge
Partners Must Both Contribute to Business

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Perry's infatuation for Helen hit him like the Blitz. As a result, he left his wife and took up residence with his Helen-of-joy. And, as security for Helen's future, Perry promised her that she would be his equal partner in all his future business dealings. Thereafter, Perry went on to accumulate a relative fortune. When he died, however, his wife insisted that as his only relative, she was entitled to that entire relative fortune.

"She may be his widow," Helen conceded in court. "but, I was his partner. Consequently, half of everything belongs to me."

"That a laugh," responded Perry's widow. "While her partnership may have entitled her to dishpan hands, that's all it entitled her to. She had no more to do with Perry's business activities than Peter Rabbit."

The dispute ended in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you recognize Helen as Perry's partner?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that to have a partnership each party must contribute something to the partnership. In this case, concluded the judge, Helen's only possible contribution was her living with Perry illegally. And, an illegal contribution is no contribution.

Ann Landers
Tranquilizers Inadequate for Mother Continuously Frustrated by Children

Dear Ann Landers: I'm ashamed to talk to my minister about this and my doctor won't take my problem seriously. When I tried to discuss it with him on two occasions he gave me some sample envelopes of tranquilizers and said, "try these. All mothers go through this when their children are little."

My children are 2-1/2 and 4-1/2 years old. They are driving me crazy. Every morning I resolve to be pleasant and gentle with them. By noon I am shrieking my head off and punishing at every turn. By nightfall I am praying again, "Dear God, please forgive me for being so impatient with my children."

Why must children test their mothers to the limit of their tolerance? Do they ever learn to do as they are told the first time? I've read that youngsters love to please their parents. I don't believe it. Mine have received a great deal more love and attention than most, yet they seem determined to ignore me and do as they please.

Sometimes I don't think I'll make it through the next three years, when they both will be in school. Can you say something that will help me keep my sanity? Please try. — FALLING APART

Dear Falling: Every mother has bad days and such days should be expected. But if you are having weeks and months of frustration, screaming and punishing followed by guilt feelings and periods of depression, you need outside help. Tranquilizers are no answer.

Many cities have counseling programs offered through mental health clinics. Some are free, other charge a nominal fee. Write to the National Association for Mental Health, Inc., 10 Columbus Circle, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister's son, Tex, is going into the service next month. He and his wife have been married less than six months. A family dispute has arisen over where Tex's wife should stay. She cannot afford to keep the apartment.

The girl is 17 and has less sense than my Angora cat. She wants to move in with a girl friend whose husband left for Vietnam two months ago.

I say the child belongs with her parents. Also, wouldn't it be a good idea if she went back to high school and got a little more education? Please don't tell me to M.Y.O.B. Tex's mother is a widow and she asked for my advice. I told her I was no Ann Landers but I offered to write for your opinion. Please help — STUMPED

Dear Stumped: Of course thygirl would be better off with her parents and it would be a good idea if she returned to school, but she's a married woman now (even though your cat has more sense) and nobody can tell her what to do. Suggest it (in a low key manner) and hope she listens.

Confidential to Will He Or Won't He? My guess is he won't. Why should he? The sample was ample.

ANN LANDERS' NEW BOOK, "TRUTH IS STRANGER," IS AVAILABLE AT YOUR BOOKSTORE. PRICE: $4.95.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Looking Back
Pneumonia Fatal to Dexter Residents

50 years ago
November 22, 1918
Chester Grojean, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Grojean, former residents of Sikeston, died of pneumonia at his home in Dexter Monday afternoon. H.A. Copeland, cashier of the Bank of Dexter and another splendid young man, died at Dexter yesterday morning of influenza.

Leslie Gross and family returned home Tuesday from Mount Union, Pa., where the former had been working at a new powder plant for the Aetna Explosive Co., since last July. Mr. Gross said that all work on the new plant was stopped as soon as the armistice was signed and the employees were discharged. He expects to remain here a few days and then go south to work in one of the shipyards.

40 years ago

If You Were the Judge

Ann Landers

Partners Must Both Contribute to Business Continuously Frustrated by Children

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Perry's infatuation for Helen hit him like the Blitz. As a result, he left his wife and took up residence with his Helen-of-joy. And, as security for Helen's future, Perry promised her that she would be his equal partner in all his future business dealings. Thereafter, Perry went on to accumulate a relative fortune. When he died, however, his wife insisted that as his only relative, she was entitled to that entire relative fortune.

"That a laugh," responded Perry's widow. "While her partnership may have entitled her to dishpan hands, that's all it entitled her to. She had no more to do with Perry's business activities than Peter Rabbit."

The dispute ended in court. IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you recognize Helen as Perry's partner? This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that to have a partnership each party must contribute something to the partnership. In this case, concluded the judge, Helen's only possible contribution was her living with Perry illegally. And, an illegal contribution is no contribution.

(Based upon a 1965 Florida District Court of Appeals Decision)

Dear Ann Landers: I'm ashamed to talk to my minister about this and my doctor won't take my problem seriously. When I tried to discuss it with him on two occasions he gave me some sample envelopes of tranquilizers and said, "try these. All mothers go through this when their children are little."

My children are 2½ and 4½ years old. They are driving me crazy. Every morning I resolve to be pleasant and gentle with them. By noon I am shrieking my head off and punishing at every turn. By nightfall I am praying again, "Dear God, please forgive me for being so impatient with my children."

Why must children test their mothers to the limit of their tolerance? Do they ever learn to do as they are told the first time? I've read that youngsters love to please their parents. I don't believe it. Mine have received a great deal more love and attention than most, yet they seem determined to ignore me and do as they please.

Sometimes I don't think I'll make it through the next three years, when they both will be in school. Can you say something that will help me keep my sanity? Please try. — FALLING APART

Dear Falling: Every mother has bad days and such days should be expected. But if you are having weeks and months of frustration, screaming and punishing followed by guilt feelings and periods of depression, you need outside help. Tranquilizers are no answer.

Many cities have counseling programs offered through mental health clinics. Some are free, other charge a nominal fee. Write to the National Association for Mental Health, Inc., 10 Columbus Circle, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister's son, Tex, is going into the service next month. He and his wife have been married less than six months. A family dispute has arisen over where Tex's wife should stay. She cannot afford to keep the apartment.

The girl is 17 and has less sense than my Angora cat. She wants to move in with a girl friend whose husband left for Vietnam two months ago.

I say the child belongs with her parents. Also, wouldn't it be a good idea if she went back to high school and got a little more education? Please don't tell me to MY.O.B. Tex's mother is a widow and she asked for my advice. I told her I was Ann Landers but I offered to write for your opinion. Please help — STUMPED

Dear Stumped: Of course thygirl would be better off with her parents and it would be a good idea if she returned to school, but she's a married woman now (even though your cat has more sense) and nobody can tell her what to do. Suggest it (in a low key manner) and hope she listens.

Confidential to Will He Or Won't He?: My guess is he won't. Why should he? The sample was ample.

ANN LANDERS' NEW BOOK, "TRUTH IS STRANGER" IS AVAILABLE AT YOUR BOOKSTORE. PRICE - $4.95.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pneumonia Fatal to Dexter Residents

50 years ago

November 22, 1918

Chester Grojean, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Grojean, former residents of Sikeston, died of pneumonia at his home in Dexter Monday afternoon.

He was 21 years old. He was a clerk of the Bank of Dexter and another splendid young man, died at Dexter yesterday morning of influenza.

Leslie Gross and family returned home Tuesday from Mount Union, Pa., where the former had been working at a new powder plant for the Aetna Explosive Co., since last July.

Mr. Gross said that all work on the new plant was stopped as soon as the armistice was signed and the employees were discharged. He expects to remain here a few days and then go south to work in one of the shipyards.

Interstate 55 Stretch Will Be Opened Monday

William H. Shaw, District Engineer for the Missouri State Highway Department at Sikeston, announced today that another section of Interstate 55 in New Madrid county will be opened to traffic at 1 p.m. Monday from near New Madrid to three miles south of Portageville.

Contractors may still be working on the south end of this section after it has been opened to traffic. District Highway Engineer William H. Shaw requested motorists using it to be alert to the presence of men and equipment. The highway department's maintenance personnel may be erecting signs at the point where this section of I-55 ties into old route 61 south of Portageville.

Also to be opened Monday, is a rest area near the Marston interchange.

Prime contractors of this section are the Koss Construction Company of Des Moines and the W. J. Veneff Construction Company of Sedalia. The total cost is $5,700,000.

That portion of Interstate 55 extending from a point three miles south of Portageville to near Hayti is under contract. Paving is in progress. This portion of the will not be until next year.

The next segment of Interstate 55 to be advertised for bids will be the 4.2 mile section in the vicinity of Hayti. This section was scheduled for letting in October but, due to a cutback in federal funds it has been delayed.

Also delayed by the reduction of federal funds is the letting of the first contract providing for substructure work on the Mississippi river bridge to be constructed on Interstate 155 south of Caruthersville. These projects will be let as soon as the federal government releases the funds.

Advance Youth Sentenced To Two Years

BLOOMFIELD - Malta Romaine Stepp, Jr., 18, of Advance was convicted Tuesday by a Stoddard county jury of burglary and stealing in his trial arising from the Sept. 19 burglary of the Dick Cresap Western Auto Store of Advance and the jury fixed punishment at two years in the penitentiary on each charge.

Circuit Judge William H. Billings granted Stepp's attorney 20 days in which to file a motion for a new trial and set the date for sentencing for Dec. 16. The state board of probation and parole was ordered to prepare and file a presentence investigation and report.

Prosecuting attorney Paul McGhee represented the state and Stepp was represented by attorney John William Ringer under court appointment. In the burglary, guns, watches and merchandise in the amount of $400 were taken.

Ad Manager At Kennett to Join Burlison

KENNETT - Daily Democrat advertising manager Robert Gunter has confirmed his appointment as administrative assistant to Congressman-elect Bill D. Burlison.

He will resign from The Daily Democrat Dec. 27.

Gunter has been employed with The Daily Democrat three years.

Gunter is a graduate of Campbell high school and served three years with the Marines. He is a member of the Kennett city council. He formerly was employed by the Gideon News of Gideon and worked three years with the Emerson Electric Co. at Kennett.

Gunter and his wife, Bonnie have two children, Michelle, age 6 and Robert, 10 months. The family will move to Washington, D.C., early next year.

Confidence Games in Poplar Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF - The "confidence racket" worked twice in Poplar Bluff Tuesday.

That morning a man appeared at the home of Mrs. Pearl Grable, representing himself as an executive of a bonding company which had bonded the Ace Exterminating Co.

According to police, the man told the woman they had canceled out on the company and were refunding double the amount back on all jobs that had been over $100. In order to put it in effect, he said he needed a check for $250 which was written.

The woman told the man to write his name on the check and he wrote "Mark Hinkle." He was to return at 5:30 p.m. which he failed to do.

The same afternoon, a Negro man went to the home of Henry Cook and represented himself as an employee of the electric company. He said he was there to inspect the meter, that the electric bill was overdue and he would have to collect $20. Cook gave the Negro $20.

Vera B. Simpson Dies in Cairo

Fire Razes House North Of Dexter

DEXTER - Residents who saw a glow in the skies in Dexter at around 3 a.m. Saturday may not have realized that a 11 room home was burning north of Dexter and six people were escaping with their lives.

It was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Demp Holden and their four children, Steve, 1, Diane, 18, Verne, 14, and Timmy, 10. The home was destroyed and the family suffered minor burns.

Mrs. Holden awoke with her hair on fire and fortunately her family heard her screams and ran to the door to the patio but it would not open. Holden was upstairs cut off from escape from the bedroom door and he crashed through the window.

The patio door opened and, the family was outside just a few minutes when the structure collapsed.

Mr. and Mrs. Holden are operators of the Western Auto Store in Dexter.

Mrs. Holden had checks cashed by the store in her purse and they were burned along with everything they owned except their nightclothes.

It is hoped that those who cashed checks at the store Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday got in touch with them at the store.
